Costly Shipping Strike Ended

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of two maritime unions say they will recommend speedy ratification of the agreement ending the costly 75-day shipping strike in East and Gulf Coast ports.

The two unions are the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, and the American Radio Association, both AFL-CIO.

Ratification could come by Wednesday, with ships sailing the following day.

President Johnson, who announced the settlement, hailed it as a step "toward a new and responsible maritime policy in this country.

Nearly 100 ships have been idled by the strike that began June 15. President Johnson said strike losses, which have been estimated unofficially at about $150 million, "cannot ever be recovered."

The American Merchant Marine Institute, which represents eight shipping lines that have been struck, reached agreement Aug. 29 with a third union, the Marine Engineer Beneficial Association.

The agreement provides for a four-year, no-strike contract. It includes a 3.2 per cent increase in economic benefits, eliminates contract inequities between various seagoing unions, according to a union spokesman, and establishes greater job security in addition to providing pension guarantees.

Kennedys Keep Hospital Busy

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. AP-- Kathleen Kennedy, 14, daughter of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N. Y., reportedly says she's ready to ride again just as soon as doctors discharge her from Cape Cod Hospital.

She suffered a mild concussion when her horse missed a jump and fell on her and she was rushed unconscious to the hospital, where her brother, Robert Jr., 11, was admitted Friday with a severe leg wound.

Robert fell from a garage roof at the Kennedy compound. A hundred stitches were taken to close the wound.

India Claims Success In Attack

NEW DELHI, India AP -- India claimed complete success today in an attack deep into Pakistani territory in west central Kashmir.

Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament that Indian troops have captured substantial quantities of Pakistani weapons and equipment and have occupied the strategic Haji Pier Pass.

Indian forces also have occupied Bedore and other Pakistani posts in the so-called Uri salient, and five to 10 miles across the U. N. cease-fire line, Chavan said. The attack began last Thursday.

Authorities said Mrs. Alexander attempted a left turn from the highway onto a rural road, and was met by the Wenzel car driven by Bernard Wenzel, 29, of Brinktown. He was injured.

GOP Fever Pushes Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott crossed swords today with Barry Goldwater over the importance of Republican governors to the GOP cause.

Republican governors, said Scott, have become "the greatest single source of strength and vitality" in the party.

The Pennsylvanian, a former chairman of the Republican National Committee, spoke out in a prepared Senate speech as the tempo of Republican politics picked up.

Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate in 1964, asserted in a newspaper column Aug. 11 that the governors intend to "represent the views of a special faction of the Republican party."

"We must look to the Congress for Republican policy," wrote Goldwater, a former Republican senator from Arizona.

Try To Improve Polish Relations

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson's decision to send Postmaster General John A. Gronouski to Poland as ambassador is aimed at halting a steady slide in Washington's relations with Warsaw, U.S. officials said today.

These official sources believe the 45-year-old envoy will continue the U.S. ambassadorial talks with Communist China in Warsaw. The 129th meeting with Chinese Communist representatives will be held Sept. 15.

During the past seven years, the only formal contacts between the United States and Red China have been through their ambassadors to Poland. Washington does not recognize the Peking regime.

U.S.-Polish relations have been strained, but have not deteriorated to the point where they are critical. But for reasons that are not too clear, the Poles have had a stronger reaction against U.S. policy in Viet Nam than any other East European Communist country with the exception of the Soviet Union.

Malaysia Enters Third Year

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia AP -- Malaysia enters its third year Tuesday, with its future clouded by Communist ambitions and internal discord.

Conceived as a bulwark against communism in stormtossed Southeast Asia, the federation was jolted by the breakaway of Singapore State Aug. 9. The shock waves are still stirring restlessness in Malaysia's Borneo states of Sabah and Sarawak.

Rayburn Okayed Choice Of Johnson

NEW YORK AP -- President Johnson accepted the nomination of vice president in1960 only after he was assured of the approval of the late speaker of the House, Sam Rayburn, who feared a presidential victory for Richard M. Nixon, the New York Times said today.

A Washington dispatch by Arthur Krock said two Democrats prevailed upon Rayburn to approve of Johnson, whom Rayburn wanted to remain as Senate majority leader.

State Fair Attendance Rises Despite Weather

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP)—Attendance at the nine-day Missouri Fair, which closed Sunday, was 265,257, about 24,000 more than last year, officials said.

There were 231,393 paid admissions, plus 33,864 non-paying children.

The attendance improved despite heavy rains, steamy heat, and two chilly nights.

Five persons are in critical condition as a result of the worst accident in the fair's 63-year history Saturday.

A race car crashed through the fence at the first turn and plummeted into a group of spectators, killing four and injuring 14.

The victims had slipped into an area that is barred to spectators, officials said, and if they hadn't been there no one would have been hurt. The stock car driver, Bill Crane of Claycomo escaped injury.

Those in critical condition are Miss Margaret Parker, 21, Independence, Mo.; Elizabeth Ann Gate, 18, Jefferson City; George Martin, 14, Somerville, Tex.; Frederick D. Brandt, 30, Wichita, Kan., and his son, Charles Brandt, 3.

Killed were Brandt's other son, Rickie Brandt, 4; Mrs. Jacqueline Bogard, St. Louis County; Glenn S. Taylor, 17, Maysville, and William E. McCartney, 21, Amity.

115-Bushel-Per-Acre Corn On Sandy Soil

By Leo L. Schade

NEW MADRID -- Industriousness, like that of the fabled ants, best explains the farming wizardry of Collis Maltbia, who has 38 years experience.

Maltbia, who lives with his family on his farm a mile and a half north of New Madrid on highway 61, has done it again.

The 50-year-old farmer produced 115 bushels of corn to the acre on heavy sandy soil. In January he rented the ground, which he said "has been known not to produce a good crop for 10 years."

"I thought twice before taking it on," he recalled. "Then I looked at the dirt and I thought I could do something with it."

Maltbia said that in 10 years the farm had never produced more than 50-bushels-to-the-acre of corn, a half bale of cotton and 15 to 20 bushels of beans.

The 640 rented acres are on the Bob Hill farm, seven miles southeast of Sikeston. The corn was harvested on two plots, of 120 and 250 acres. His two 70-acre cotton plots there will produce at least a bale per acre.

The veteran farmer won wide acclaim in 1963 when he produced 74,200 bushels of corn on 425 acres, 5,000 bushels of soybeans on 200 acres, 360 bales of cotton on 240 acres and an average of 40 bushels of wheat on 50 acres. He then farmed about 900 acres.

On the corn land he has now cleared on the Hill farm, all stalks have been shredded and the ground limed. It has been laid aside until next season's crop preparation.

His attention was called to a heavy infestation of Johnson grass in one spot of a field.

"Oh, that, I'll whip it in the next year or two," he explained. "I'll fight it with a chemical weed kill."

But he does not always follow the crowd in adopting modern, scientific methods of farming. He uses no irrigation.

Despite two years of drought, Maltbia has no plans to turn to irrigation, Southeast Missouri's answer to dry weather. He relies instead on his own farming procedures.

This season he is farming 1,840 acres of which he owns 192.

The energetic farmer leads a crew of from six to eight men, required to take care of the acreage the year around. His operation is highly mechanized. He owns and operates seven large tractors, a corn picker, a cotton picker, seven trucks and three discs.

Work is a basic element in his farming magic: During the growing season he is up at 3 a.m. He doesn't quit until 8 p.m.

"I listen to other farmers, read a lot and keep in touch with the county agricultural extension directors," he said.

"If there is such a thing as a secret in farming, I guess it's because I try to prepare a good seed bed when I plant. You must use fertilizer that will constantly feed the plant while it is growing. To do this I apply fertilizer twice.

"The main thing is to keep out all unwanted vegetation and cultivate the plants as little as possible. Keep those weeds out. They use up as much of your fertilizer as do the plants themselves."

Discouragement leaves him undaunted. Flexible and diversified he works each crop as a separate project. If he fails on one he strives for success on the others.

A crop failure one year gives him the opportunity to work out a success next year.

Maltbia completed only the ninth grade in school.

His farm success story began in 1930 as manager of the L. Shainberg farm, later owned by Shainberg's son, Jake, and his wife. His earnings provided the nest egg to buy the farm, where he now lives, in 1962 from the Jake Shainbergs' daughters.

Maltbia lives in a modest white frame house with his wife, Martha, who manages the household, and their daughter, Yvonne, 11, who assists in taking care of the house.

On 240 acres of cotton he will produce at least a bale to the acre this season. He has another 500 acres in soybeans, which will yield a little more than an average acre yield of 30 bushels if there are sufficient late rains.

Maltbia was born near Conway, Ark., where at 15 he was a farm manager. He began farming at 12 and moved to Missouri when he was 17.

He says that farming is a way of life and that he enjoys everything about it--the never ending work and the constant process of acquiring knowledge. His family shares his enjoyment.

A religious man, always ready to credit the All Mighty for his good fortune on the farm, he is a Methodist steward.

His philosophy: "Only the good Lord can control the seasons. It is up to man to prepare and harvest the crops."

Three Bloomfield Boys Injured

Three Bloomfield teenagers were hurt when a truck leaped off route TT in Bollinger county at 9:30 a.m. Sunday. A 1959 International pickup, driven by Donald Duba, 18, skidded in loose gravel, jumped a four-foot ditch, and came to a stop in a woods 300 feet away.

The driver's head and hip were injured. Passengers Gary Tucker, 15, had a head injury and leg cuts and Glen Green, 15, chest and stomach injuries. They were treated by a Bloomfield physician.

President Johnson Moves To Break Steel Impasse

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson summoned steel negotiators to a White House meeting today in an attempt to end what he called a stalemate and head off a strike.

The President dispatched his personal plane to Pittsburgh to bring the 10 principal spokesmen for unions and steel producers to the conference table at the White House. The chief negotiators are I.W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers Union, and R. Conrad Cooper, representing 10 major producers.

The plane is expected to get them to Washington in time for an early afternoon session with Johnson, Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor.

The strike deadline is midnight Tuesday.

Johnson's decision to take a personal hand in the steel dispute at this point followed a report from the fact-finding team he sent to Pittsburgh Saturday. The word from the two members, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Undersecretary of Commerce Leroy Collins was that the negotiators were getting nowhere and the negotiations were stalemated.

Moon Flight Nearer

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Doctors began probing the physical condition of America's Gemini 5 space champs today while space officials already spoke enthusiastically of having qualified man for an eight-day roundtrip to the moon.

A sharp eye was kept on astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. to see whether disturbing symptoms might yet crop up in exhaustive medical examinations.

So far, in tests aboard the USS Lake Champlain, no such symptoms had been reported.

Happy officials here expressed their confidence this way in a press briefing shortly after the astronauts were brought aboard the Champlain by helicopter Sunday:

Dr. Robert Gilruth, Manned you all know, we are driving forward to go to the moon during this decade, and someone said there in control center, 'We've now qualified one of the subsystems for the mission. That's the crew'."

Dr. Charles Berry, flight surgeon: "We don't like to necessarily consider the crew as subsystems, but we certainly have the first of any parts of the Apollo system (the moon rocket project) that are qualified for eight days."

The space heroes were to sleep as long as they liked today. After more examinations, the men were to be flown to Cape Kennedy, about 400 miles

Ten Aquanauts Finish Preparations For Sea Test

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—Ten aquanauts finish setting up housekeeping today for their 45-day endurance test in Sealab 2,205 feet below the Pacific Ocean surface.

Then they'll swim out to help hook up a communications and data-gathering unit on the side of their undersea trailer.

"Our views of marine life are tremendously exciting," team leader M. Scott Carpenter radioed to the surface Sunday.

"Visibility down here is much greater than we had hoped for," he said. "We should be extremely successful with our marine biology experiments."

A mass of unusually clear water now surrounds the undersea craft, giving the aquanauts 60 to 70 feet visibility, a Navy spokesman said.

The divers descended Saturday to their 12-by-58-foot steel cylinder on the ocean floor 1,000 yards from this Southern California resort.

Using underwater breathing apparatus, they later swam to a rocket-shaped personnel transfer capsule 30 feet away to inspect its workings. The capsule, clearly visible from Sealab 2, will be used to bring the aquanauts to the surface in emergencies or for final decompression on ascending at the end of their tours.

Police Arrest Six Over Weekend

Six men were arrested by police during the weekend.

Donald Helms, St. Louis, was charged with careless and imprudent driving.

Alford O'Conner, Odessa, Tex., was charged with disturbing the peace.

Edward Underhill, 803 Matthews, was charged with public intoxication.

Dennis Johnston, East Prairie, was charged with a parole violation.

Loyd Lathom, route two, was charged with speeding.

Leon Daniel, 217 Luther, was charged with public intoxication.

Russell Regrets U.S. Didn't Bomb Red Missiles

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Richard B. Russell said today the war in Viet Nam might have been shortened if the United States had forcefully removed Soviet missiles from Cuba in 1962.

The Georgia Democrat, in a copyrighted interview in U. S. News & World Report, recalled that Congress had passed a resolution saying the United States would consider Soviet placement of offensive weapons in Cuba as an act of war.

"It's very unfortunate we didn't go ahead then and clean up Castro and the Communists and the missiles all at one time when we had a reason for doing it," he said.

"I think it would have had a very salutary effect all over the entire world and probably would have avoided a number of Viet Nams in the future," he added.

School Bells Summon 4,000 Students Back To Classes

School bells were heard this morning at the public schools and at St. Xavier parochial school.

Eleven big yellow school buses ambled out of the drive to roll through the city to officially get the 1965-66 school year underway.

According to Lynn Twitty, superintendent, about 4,000 students reported for study in the public school system. A total of 2,060 students is expected in the elementary schools. Junior High will will have an enrollment of 975 and the senior high will have 830 students. Approximately 150 are enrolled at St. Xavier, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter McGrane said.

The number of teachers has increased by 21 this year for a total of 202. Most of the added teachers are in the vocational program or teach new special education classes. Forty-nine of these teachers are new to the system this year. Last year the system lost 31 teachers who had to be replaced.

The elementary program has the largest staff with 76. Senior high has 55 teachers and junior high has 51.

The trade-technical institute and related vocational programs will employ 27 instructors.

About 125 students from neighboring schools including Charleston, Scott Central, East Prairie, Matthews, Dexter, Kelley, Chaffee and Illmo-Scott City, will be enrolled in the trade-technical institute in eight vocational areas.

As in years past, a mid-day hot lunch will be available for the students who wish it.

A school nurse, assisted by a licensed practical nurse or nurse aide, will be available in the health program, for giving sight and visual tests and for minor first aid and for health education.

The maintenance department has 27 employees that care for 483,500 square feet of school buildings and grounds.

"SHUCKS!!! It is just the first day of school, too." That's what Paul Lathum, 102 East Kathleen St., said this morning. He was on his way to school when his bicycle spilled him and his books. He is a high school freshman and is the son of Maxine Lathum.

Costly Shipping Strike Ended

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of two maritime unions say they will recommend speedy ratification of the agreement ending the costly 75-day shipping strike in East and Gulf Coast ports.

The two unions are the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, and the American Radio Association, both AFL-CIO.

Ratification could come by Wednesday, with ships sailing the following day.

President Johnson, who announced the settlement, hailed it as a step "toward a new and responsible maritime policy in this country.

Nearly 100 ships have been idled by the strike that began June 15. President Johnson said strike losses, which have been estimated unofficially at about $150 million, "cannot ever be recovered."

The American Merchant Marine Institute, which represents eight shipping lines that have been struck, reached agreement Aug. 29 with a third union, the Marine Engineer Beneficial Association.

The agreement provides for a four-year, no-strike contract. It includes a 3.2 per cent increase in economic benefits, eliminates contract inequities between various seagoing unions, according to a union spokesman, and establishes greater job security in addition to providing pension guarantees.

Kennedys Keep Hospital Busy

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. AP--Kathleen Kennedy, 14, daughter of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N. Y., reportedly says she's ready to ride again just as soon as doctors discharge her from Cape Cod Hospital.

She suffered a mild concussion when her horse missed a jump and fell on her and she was rushed unconscious to the hospital, where her brother, Robert Jr., 11, was admitted Friday with a severe leg wound.

Robert fell from a garage roof at the Kennedy compound. A hundred stitches were taken to close the wound.

India Claims Success In Attack

NEW DELHI, India AP -- India claimed complete success today in an attack deep into Pakistani territory in west central Kashmir.

Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament that Indian troops have captured substantial quantities of Pakistani weapons and equipment and have occupied the strategic Haji Pier Pass.

Indian forces also have occupied Bedore and other Pakistani posts in the so-called Uri salient, and five to 10 miles across the U. N. cease-fire line, Chavan said. The attack began last Thursday.

Three Killed In Car-Truck Crash

DIXON (AP) -- Three were killed in a car-truck collision Saturday night on state highway 133 north of Dixon.

John P. Wenzel, 30, of Dixon, died Sunday in a Waynesville hospital of injuries received in the crash. Two women in a pickup truck, Mrs. Mabel Alexander, 57, and Mrs. Ruby Crone, 47, both of Dixon, were killed instantly.

Authorities said Mrs. Alexander attempted a left turn from the highway onto a rural road, and was met by the Wenzel car driven by Bernard Wenzel, 29, of Brinktown. He was injured.

GOP Fever Pushes Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott crossed swords today with Barry Goldwater over the importance of Republican governors to the GOP cause.

Republican governors, said Scott, have become "the greatest single source of strength and vitality" in the party.

The Pennsylvanian, a former chairman of the Republican National Committee, spoke out in a prepared Senate speech as the tempo of Republican politics picked up.

Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate in 1964, asserted in a newspaper column Aug. 11 that the governors intend to "represent the views of a special faction of the Republican party."

"We must look to the Congress for Republican policy," wrote Goldwater, a former Republican senator from Arizona.

Try To Improve Polish Relations

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson's decision to send Postmaster General John A. Gronouski to Poland as ambassador is aimed at halting a steady slide in Washington's relations with Warsaw, U.S. officials said today.

These official sources believe the 45-year-old envoy will continue the U.S. ambassadorial talks with Communist China in Warsaw. The 129th meeting with Chinese Communist representatives will be held Sept. 15.

During the past seven years, the only formal contacts between the United States and Red China have been through their ambassadors to Poland. Washington does not recognize the Peking regime.

U.S.-Polish relations have been strained, but have not deteriorated to the point where they are critical. But for reasons that are not too clear, the Poles have had a stronger reaction against U.S. policy in Viet Nam than any other East European Communist country with the exception of the Soviet Union.

Rayburn Okayed Choice Of Johnson

NEW YORK AP -- President Johnson accepted the nomination of vice president in 1960 only after he was assured of the approval of the late speaker of the House, Sam Rayburn, who feared a presidential victory for Richard M. Nixon, the New York Times said today.

A Washington dispatch by Arthur Krock said two Democrats prevailed upon Rayburn to approve of Johnson, whom Rayburn wanted to remain as Senate majority leader.

School Bells Summon 4,000 Students Back To Classes

School bells were heard this morning at the public schools and at St. Xavier parochial school.

Eleven big yellow school buses ambled out of the drive to roll through the city to officially get the 1965-66 school year underway.

According to Lynn Twitty, superintendent, about 4,000 students reported for study in the public school system. A total of 2,060 students is expected in the elementary schools. Junior High will will have an enrollment of 975 and the senior high will have 830 students. Approximately 150 are enrolled at St. Xavier, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter McGrane said.

The number of teachers has increased by 21 this year for a total of 202. Most of the added teachers are in the vocational program or teach new special education classes. Forty-nine of these teachers are new to the system this year. Last year the system lost 31 teachers who had to be replaced.

The elementary program has the largest staff with 76. Senior high has 55 teachers and junior high has 51.

The trade-technical institute and related vocational programs will employ 27 instructors.

About 125 students from neighboring schools including Charleston, Scott Central, East Prairie, Matthews, Dexter, Kelley, Chaffee and Illmo-Scott City, will be enrolled in the trade-technical institute in in eight vocational areas.

As in years past, a mid-day hot lunch will be available for the students who wish it.

A school nurse, assisted by a licensed practical nurse or nurse aide, will be available in the health program, for giving sight and visual tests and for minor first aid and for health education.

The maintenance department has 27 employees that care for 483,500 square feet of school buildings and grounds.

"SHUCKS!!! It is just the first day of school, too." That's what Paul Lathum, 102 East Kathleen St., said this morning. He was on his way to school when his bicycle spilled him and his books. He is a high school freshman and is the son of Maxine Lathum.

State Fair Attendance Rises Despite Weather

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP)—Attendance at the nine-day Missouri Fair, which closed Sunday, was 265,257, about 24,000 more than last year, officials said.

There were 231,393 paid admissions, plus 33,864 non-paying children.

The attendance improved despite heavy rains, steamy heat, and two chilly nights.

Five persons are in critical condition as a result of the worst accident in the fair's 63-year history Saturday.

A race car crashed through the fence at the first turn and plummeted into a group of spectators, killing four and injuring 14.

The victims had slipped into an area that is barred to spectators, officials said, and if they hadn't been there no one would have been hurt. The stock car driver, Bill Crane of Claycomo escaped injury.

Those in critical condition are Miss Margaret Parker, 21, Independence, Mo.; Elizabeth Ann Gate, 18, Jefferson City; George Martin, 14, Somerville, Tex.; Frederick D. Brandt, 30, Wichita, Kan., and his son, Charles Brandt, 3.

Killed were Brandt's other son, Rickie Brandt, 4; Mrs. Jacqueline Bogard, St. Louis County; Glenn S. Taylor, 17, Maysville, and William E. McCartney, 21, Amity.

President Johnson Moves To Break Steel Impasse

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson summoned steel negotiators to a White House meeting today in an attempt to end what he called a stalemate and head off a strike.

The President dispatched his personal plane to Pittsburgh to bring the 10 principal spokesmen for unions and steel producers to the conference table at the White House. The chief negotiators are I.W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers Union, and R. Conrad Cooper, representing 10 major producers.

The plane is expected to get them to Washington in time for an early afternoon session with Johnson, Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor.

The strike deadline is midnight Tuesday.

Johnson's decision to take a personal hand in the steel dispute at this point followed a report from the fact-finding team he sent to Pittsburgh Saturday. The word from the two members, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Undersecretary of Commerce Leroy Collins was that the negotiators were getting nowhere and the negotiations were stalemated.

A HOUSE FOR HUMPH

ALEXANDER THROTTLEBOTTOM, in the musical Of Thee I Sing, had been nominated for Vice President by the simple process of putting a number of names on slips in a hat and pulling one out. Throttlebottom didn't win; he lost -- that is, his name was drawn.

That wouldn't seem so funny today. As far as his constitutional functions are concerned, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is one of the most insignificant members of the executive branch. He is to preside over the Senate, where his rulings are rarely of moment, and to vote there in the rare case of a tie.

What any particular Vice President makes of his office, and especially what any particular President makes of his Vice President, is extra-constitutional. Of late the Vice-Presidency has been recognized as a responsible, highly powerful, and even portentous office. Twice in the past 20 years tragedy has called the Vice President to the land's highest office.

All of this is behind the new society debate in Washington over an official home for the Vice President. The scheme goes back to the Vice Presidency of Harry Truman, who was not so well circumstanced as some of his predecessors. It has gained great currency by the introduction of two bills that would provide an official residence.

THE FIRST was introduced on Aug. 11 by Sen. George A. Smathers (D Fla.). It calls for the designation of Admiral's House, a 33-room Victorian manse used as a resident for the Chief of Naval Operations, to be turned over to the Vice President -- with a $100,000 annual allowance for maintenance. The rather Charles Addamsy relic stands on a vast government tract in the fashionable Northwest section atop Observatory Hill, overlooking Massachusetts Ave. and adjacent to several embassies.

The second, introduced a few minutes later by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D Okla.), would authorize appointment of a three-member commission to "select and acquire" a suitable residence. It calls for appropriation of a maximum of $1 million for that purpose.

Vice President Humphrey, who was forewarned of the joint effort, said he was "not anxious" to move, but conceded that anyone in his job could "do his job a little better" if there were an official residence. The Humphreys live in a four-bedroom, green-and-white house in Chevy Chase. "I love the house I have," Humphrey says. "It's paid for."

"THE TIME HAS COME," Smathers told the Senate, "to stop treating the second-in-command like a second-class citizen." Sen. Monroney stressed the need for a residence that would be "convenient to the White House, commodious and attractive for the holding of state functions."

Sen. Smathers read from an editorial printed by the Washington Evening Star almost two decades ago: "The Vice President is really a standby President. He should receive enough salary to live in a style befitting his high position. And it would not be overdoing things to relieve him of the task of house hunting by assuring him of a rent-free home for him and his family."

And how is Hubert Horatio Humphrey doing as the backup man? The latest Gallup Poll shows 27.4 per cent of those questioned admitting to a high regard for the Vice President. That may not sound high, but Lyndon B. Johnson polled only 23.7 per cent in the "enthusiasm quotient" test after a year as Veep. The public still attaches a bit of Throttlebottomery to the Vice Presidency, for all its new rank.

A home which sells for $15,000 in Texas or Iowa would cost $30,000 in France. It would cost $20,000 in Italy.

The difference in cost of homes in southern Europe and the United States can be traced largely to efficiency in construction techniques.

Semi - automated home building was made possible by mass demand for good, new housing. Creation of this demand has been a major accomplishment of local newspaper advertising during the past fifteen years.

"Today, I can sell a $20,000 home to people who would not consider paying more than $7,000 for a house in 1950. It wasn't the money; it just took people a long time to realize that they could enjoy the benefits of the more costly investment," one of the nation's leading home builders asserts.

"Of course, advertising was essential--big, hardselling advertisements, week after week, year after year," he added. "That advertising has helped us to change the face of cities. It has provided thousands of good jobs."

It is notable that the advertising and promotion which guide the home construction boom in America was 80 per cent local newspaper advertising.

No other medium could present to all potential home buyers details on plans, lots, construction, and financing, with maps, photographs, and illustrations.

PRICE APPEAL ISN'T ENOUGH

Retail businessmen are finding that it is becoming increasingly difficult to attract floor traffic on price appeal alone.

It seems everyone is putting too much emphasis on price alone.

Price is still an appeal, of coure. But generally, customers are looking for more than just price.

To remind customers of the price--and more than the price--consistently is something that can be done effectively in your newspaper. Your paper is the only advertising medium that gets into the home in material form. It waits until the family can get together and discuss the purchase.

Use your newspaper to keep customers informed.

Testifying before the Senate Finance Committee on the medicare proposal, Dr. Donovan F. Ward, president of the American Medical Association, said: "The American system of medicine for generations has been a system of quality medicine practiced through a voluntary relationship between patients and physicians, with doctors free to make decisions based on the patients' specific needs and nothing else. Forget for a moment the staggering, though unpredictable, cost of the pending program. Ignore the administrative problems that it would create, and the burden it means for wage earners at the low end of the income scale. Look only at the intrusion of Government in the field of medicine, which cannot be avoided if this measure is adopted. With the quantity of care thus restricted for the sake of controlling costs, the quality must deteriorate. The patient is the ultimate sufferer."

NEW YORK AP -- If I had life to live all over, I think I'd become the owner of a junk yard.

A junk yard proprietor can collect all the fascinating oddments he wants and nobody thinks he is crazy. He can even put them out in public without being arrested as a community nuisance.

If I couldn't raise the cash to buy, build or acquire a junk yard, I believe I'd like to work in a pawn shop. It is so much fun merely to look in the window of a real old - fashioned pawn shop that a job inside it must be ten times as exciting as working in a bank where all you see is old and new money.

"In my opinion, what you're really trying to do is turn your home into a combined junk yard and pawn shop," says my wife, Frances.

So far as I can see there is always a cold war going on in this world between the keepers and the destroyers.

The keepers are the hoarders. They want to hold on to everything. They cling to an object long after it is of any real actual use "Maybe it'll come in handy some time later," they say hopefully.

The destroyers are just the opposite. They don't want to hold on to anything much, except maybe some nice clean gilt-edged bonds that don't take up too much room. Everything else they are always marking for discard. It has to be broken up, given away, or thrown down the incinerator. In any case it must be gotten not only out of sight but out of the house.

Perhaps I am unfair to the destroyers, but it seems to me they miss some of the great joys of living. They invariably have neat homes, but who wants to spend all his time in a polished paradise? It has no variety. Its endless perfection creates finally a feeling of mental suffocation.

We are a mixture of keepers and destroyers on our apartment house floor. One family, for example, as soon as one issue of a magazine comes out, instantly puts the previous issue out for the hallman to get rid of.

This seems to me sheer madness. I pick up the magazine and bring it into our apartment. I have a gentleman's agreement with my wife: She is free to throw the magazine out after nine months, whether any of us have read it or not.

Like most keeper types, I have a treasure trove of trivialty that holds vast meaning to me but wouldn't fetch 50 cents at a rummage sale. Most of it consists of old clothing I cling to which is now so battered it would be inappropriate even to wear on a fishing trip with Bowery bums.

I hold on to it because of a theory I have that long loyalties give life its finest moments.

My wife is mildly sympathetic to this theory and goes along with it as far as she can. But now and then she rebels.

The other day she pulled off the rack one of my ties--the wide, wide kind--that used to be popular somewhat earlier in the century.

"You know you'll never need this one," she said. "That shape is out of style."

"Well, if husbands threw away neckties for that reason, they might start doing the same thing to wives," I told her.

"That'll be enough of that kind of talk, Rover," she said.

But she put the tie back on the rack.

As if Things Aren't Bad Enough

drug companies never reduce the price of products on which they have exclusive rights, and, further, that prices are never reduced on important new drugs until years after they have gone on the market.

A recent announcement by one of the major drug companies, Eli Lilly and Company, casts an interesting and revealing light on that charge.

It has to do with a new antibiotic carrying the registered name Keflin, which is a highly effective weapon against many life-threatening infections. It resulted from a breakthrough in chemistry in the company's laboratories, which enabled the scientists to produce it from a substance, cephalosporin, which previously had been so weak as to have little practical usefulness. Research on antibiotics from this source has been pursued by scientists of three countries over a 19 year period.

On April 19, less than six months after Keflin was introduced, Lilly announced a 20 per cent reduction in its price. This, the announcement said, is in line with its policy of lowering prices when economics of production permit. At the same time, the company disclosed that accelerated production has enabled it to lift the previous restriction that Keflin be reserved for critically ill patients in hospitals.

The critics of the drug industry conveniently overlook achievements and events such as this.

NOTE CUT IN EARMARKED TAXES

A significant reduction in the percentage of state taxes earmarked--out of total state tax collections -- for particular governmental purposes is noted in a new Tax Foundation, Inc. study. In fiscal 1954, just over 50 percent was earmarked; by fiscal 1963 earmarking for such activities as education, roads, welfare, etc., had been cut to 40 percent.

The new study, Earmarked State Taxes, shows that in New Mexico, for example, 80 percent of tax collections was earmarked in 1954; in 1963, only 31 percent.

In 1954, North Dakota earmarked all, and Missouri, one-third of sales tax receipts for education. In 1963, both put all sales tax receipts into their general funds, partly explaining declines in the proportions earmarked by 30 percentage points in North Dakota and 17 in Missouri.

The study also shows, for instance, that of the 37 states levying a general sales tax, 21 earmarked it in fiscal 1963 (most recent year for which complete state figures are available.)

Of 47 states levying tobacco taxes, 26 earmarked them in 1963; of 50 levying alcoholic beverage excise taxes, 24 earmarked them.

LANDMARK DECISIONS

The Supreme Court has handed down a series of decisions which have been described as "landmarks". They deal with the rights of employers in labor-management disputes.

In one, the Court held that an employer has an absolute right to terminate his entire business for any reason he chooses, although this right is qualified where only part of the business is terminated for antiunion reasons.

In a second, overruling a National Labor Relations Board decision, the Court held that an employer may temporarily lock out employees for the sole purpose of bringing economic pressure to bear in support of his legitimate bargaining position where an impasse has been reached in bargaining.

In a third in which the NLRB also was overruled, the Court held that members of a multiemployer bargaining group could not only lock out their employees where one of the group was being struck, but could also continue to operate their business with temporary help where such employer conduct was not demonstrably destructive of employees' rights.

These far-reaching decisions, let it be noted, come from a Court with very strong liberal leanings. Seemingly, they go a long way toward establishing a fair balance between the proper powers of employer and employee groups in the making and resisting of demands. A great many people have long believed that the NLRB has often been too favorable toward labor. The High Court apparently agrees.

Doc Duncan Says

The St. Louis Post Dispatch says the imponderable question for the war boys in Washington is, will Russia and China step in when and if Unk steps up the war? Best answer to that question is to ask another question. What would Unk do if Canada or Mexico was being threatened by troops from Asia? It's our studied opinion that Unk should take stock of himself and face reality once. We no longer have automic monoply since the 100 billion giveaway has made us enemies instead of friends. Unk's a po boy without allies. Its only reasonable to suppose the Asians will permit enough dough boys to get in the trap to make it worth while to snap it shut. Then there will go up an agonizing wail for Unk to use a bombs to save our boys.

BASIC ISSUES

Many thoughtful Americans have long hoped to see a fine, enlightening, clear-cut debate on the issues between the two basic viewpoints on public issues here in America which are usually labelled "Right" and "Left". They have hoped for such a debate in order to clear up the meaning of these ambiguous words and make more sense out of our public discussions.

So far their hopes have not been realized. Far from growing clearer, debate on public issues in America seems to be becoming more and more muddy. Slogans are used as a substitute for thought. Hollow words such as "extremism", untouched by even a grain of solid, specific meaning, become more popular. Whatever meaning "Right" and "Left" may once have had, they should be substituted with Constructive and Liberal and people permitted to judge.

The basic issue in America as in the world today is individualism against collectivism, man against the state. Only a handful of true fanatics actually want to see the state abolished, or a state that pays no attention whatever to individuals. But the current of our times has set in the direction of the ever-growing state, and this is the issue we must debate.

Believers in individualism have always been willing to debate this issue on its fundamentals. They urge Americans to study and make up their minds on the question of just how much power governments ought to have.

By contrast, the collectivist seek always to hide their own goals and to pretend that no basic issues exist to be debated, only a choice between this and that government program. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Two congressmen, one from the South, one a Negro, recently handled problems of traffic violations and relatives in diametrically different manners. One was Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem N. Y., the other Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa, Texas.

The latter is the once obscure congressman who has become the darling of Madison Avenue because he acted as messenger boy for the big tobacco companies and the big networks in regard to FTC and FCC regulation of advertising.

Rep. Rogers also believes in nepotism and has his son Tom on the federal payroll as a clerk in the House post office. The other day Tom was driving the wrong way down a one-way Capitol Hill street when Capitol policeman James Brick of Des Moines, Iowa, tried to stop him.

Young Rogers failed to stop. Officer Brick finally caught up with him and asked to see his driver's license. Young Rogers insulted him with vulgar language and Brick in turn took the congressman's son to the police room.

"I'll save you a lot of trouble," said the haughty young man. "My father is a congressman and if you let me call him, I'll get out of this."

Rogers called his father. Rep. Rogers is not only able to throw his weight around on Madison Avenue, but with the Capitol police. His son was promptly released. A phone call to Capt. Howard Quantrille did it.

When I called Capt. Quantrille to ask if the son of a congressman got favored treatment with Capitol police, he was frank.

"You can probably say yes," he replied.

When I called young Rogers he was not so frank. He acted as if the policeman had been completely in the wrong.

"It was all a misunderstanding," he said. "The policeman's wife had had a baby that day and he was nervous. I wish you would call my father. He called the police officer and apologies were given."

RACE DISCRIMINATION

The same policeman, James Brick, was directing traffic outside of the new Rayburn Building when Robert Flemming, husband of Louise Dargans, Powell's $19,000-a-year administrative aide, drove through Brick's "stop" signal. The young cop followed Flemming into the building garage and an argument followed. Flemming was insulting.

Brick later went to Miss Dargans' office to protest her husband's intemperate behavior. This got him nowhere. Miss Dargans ordered him out of the office. She charged that he was trying to persecute her husband because of his "color." Fearing that he might be reprimanded by police superiors after this episode, Brick decided to take the matter up with the congressman from Harlem personally.

Powell hit the ceiling--though not in anger against Brick.

"You were only doing your duty," he told Brick. "My secretary and her husband were wrong, not you. I'm sick and tired of having my name bandied like popcorn on Capitol Hill. We'll get this straightened out right now."

He summoned Miss Dargans and gave her a stern lecture, then phoned Rep. Neal Smith, D-Ia., Brick's patronage sponsor.

"This young man is absolutely in the right," he said. "I just want you to know that if there are any repercussions against him, he should come to me and I'll see that his police superiors are properly advised of what happened."

BILL WHITE'S GHOST WRITER?

Sen. Bill Fulbright of Arkansas, distinguished chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was so furious over a recent column by William S. White that he telephoned President Johnson and in effect accused Johnson of being White's ghost writer.

White, a friend of the President, wrote that Fulbright had been unable to keep his committee on the track and had pushed his own foreign policy, not the President's. Fulbright suspected that LBJ had told White to write the column, inasmuch as the President had made the same complaint in private.

Anyway, the Senator got the President on the phone and told him he was deeply offended. Johnson denied whispering any ideas to White, but the senator from Arkansas wasn't entirely convinced. He remembered the column White wrote at the President's request praising Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., for supporting LBJ's foreign policy.

WHOSE BRITISH ISLAND?

The Air Force refused permission last week for a British plane to land on Ascension Island, which happens to be British territory. What's more, the British plane happened to be flying on a United Nations food mission.

Technically, the Air Force was within its rights, since the British have signed over air control of the island to the United States as part of our missile-tracking system in the South Atlantic. But when the Fairey Air Survey Company, an old line British firm, requested permission to refuel one of its planes on the island, explaining it was on a U. N. charter flight to South America, the Air Force turned down the request on the grounds that it wans't geared to handle commercial flights.

The British embassy in Washington, indignant that a British plane should be barred from British territory, protested to the State Department. The Air Force was overruled.

Negroes Planning Sit-Downs In Union Offices Across the Land.

Washington, D. C.: -- With the cook-out season ending, many construction and building union leaders will return from their summer "places" to find their headquarters full of sitins.

Their regional offices are next on the NAACP's list.

The demonstrators, led by a one man whirlwind, Herbert Hill, the NAACP's Labor Director, are zeroing in on the men they believe are preventing Negroes from preparing for hundreds of thousands of jobs soon to be created by vast federal multi - billion dollar projects.

Already there have been sitdowns in AFL-CIO offices in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. Hill's legions are preparing to move in other industrial cities -- mostly in the north. Their battle cry has it that despite all the speeches and the bold Title Seven of the Civil Rights Act, few Negroes are getting into the construction unions.

And that fewer Negroes -- especially the young fellows -- are being permitted into the apprentice system so they can qualify to become skilled workmen. For Hill's legions, this is the zero hour. It takes years to acquire skills. Yet the government is about to start spending billions through its new Department of Urban Renewal and Housing, and on long ribbons of concrete roads, and on Appalachia and on university "plants" and headquarters installations from which to fight poverty.

Of course, the White House wants none of this quick-triggering series of conflicts, perhaps man-to-man battling, between angry Negroes and local union rank and filers.

Sophisticated White House specialists know that it isn't a matter of the union's rank and file hating Negroes as much as it is the rank and file's love of money in those high-wage pay envelopes. In addition to loving coin for themselves, they want their blood relatives to cut in on the high priced jobs. There are local unions where some 80 per cent of the new openings have gone to sons and nephews of members.

Bluntly, the resistance is within the rank and file and not among the national general presidents of even the regional leaders of some 3 million building and construction unionists.

So the White House has quietly set up a tiny, four-man task force to study the magic formula, Title Seven. The team is made up of little known technicians. Their assignment is to dig out of "the big Seven" the weapons with which to punish the recalcitrant overwhelmingly white locals.

Already enough power has been found in "Seven" to put union leaders in prison, if they absolutely refuse to permit considerable numbers of Negroes to take the qualifiying examinations for entrance to the unions or the apprenticeship lists.

This will come as a shock to some business agents but it can be done. Any man can sue a union now if he believes he is being blacklisted against because of race, color, creed or national origin. Or the Justice Dept. can order its regional attorney to take court action. Or Franklin Roosevelt's Equal Employment Opportunity Commission can move in.

If they prove their case, they have a court order directing the union to open its ranks. And not just any broad warning.

There is a case in New York City where one sheet metal workers' local has been told by the court just how many Negroes to admit, just when to hold examinations, just exactly what to do with its training classes. In other words the court took the entire matter right out of the union's hands. So there now is a Negro member for the first time in 77 years.

Defiance of such court orders could bring prison terms for comtempt. Or, moves could be made to decertify a union -- which means removing its control over construction jobs.

Or it could be banned from sending its members out on any project if a single federal dollar is involved -- be it FHA money or a Department of Defense dollar, or a road. Or even state money.

Furthermore, the White House is placing enforcement power in the hands of various cabinet members, the Civil Service Commission and the new President's Council on Equal Opportunities.

It was a hot summer. And now it looks like a very warm winter.

A HOUSE FOR HUMPH

ALEXANDER THROTTLEBOTTOM, in the musical Of Thee I Sing, had been nominated for Vice President by the simple process of putting a number of names on slips in a hat and pulling one out. Throttlebottom didn't win; he lost -- that is, his name was drawn.

That wouldn't seem so funny today. As far as his constitutional functions are concerned, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is one of the most insignificant members of the executive branch. He is to preside over the Senate, where his rulings are rarely of moment, and to vote there in the rare case of a tie.

What any particular Vice President makes of his office, and especially what any particular President makes of his Vice President, is extra-constitutional. Of late the Vice-Presidency has been recognized as a responsible, highly powerful, and even portentous office. Twice in the past 20 years tragedy has called the Vice President to the land's highest office.

All of this is behind the new society debate in Washington over an official home for the Vice President. The scheme goes back to the Vice Presidency of Harry Truman, who was not so well circumstanced as some of his predecessors. It has gained great currency by the introduction of two bills that would provide an official residence.

THE FIRST was introduced on Aug. 11 by Sen. George A. Smathers (D Fla.). It calls for the designation of Admiral's House, a 33-room Victorian manse used as a resident for the Chief of Naval Operations, to be turned over to the Vice President -- with a $100,000 annual allowance for maintenance. The rather Charles Addamsy relic stands on a vast government tract in the fashionable Northwest section atop Observatory Hill, overlooking Massachusetts Ave. and adjacent to several embassies.

The second, introduced a few minutes later by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D Okla.), would authorize appointment of a three-member commission to "select and acquire" a suitable residence. It calls for appropriation of a maximum of $1 million for that purpose.

Vice President Humphrey, who was forewarned of the joint effort, said he was "not anxious" to move, but conceded that anyone in his job could "do his job a little better" if there were an official residence. The Humphreys live in a four-bedroom, green-and-white house in Chevy Chase. "I love the house I have," Humphrey says. "It's paid for."

"THE TIME HAS COME," Smathers told the Senate, "to stop treating the second-in-command like a second-class citizen." Sen. Monroney stressed the need for a residence that would be "convenient to the White House, commodious and attractive for the holding of state functions."

Sen. Smathers read from an editorial printed by the Washington Evening Star almost two decades ago: "The Vice President is really a standby President. He should receive enough salary to live in a style befitting his high position. And it would not be overdoing things to relieve him of the task of house hunting by assuring him of a rent-free home for him and his family."

And how is Hubert Horatio Humphrey doing as the backup man? The latest Gallup Poll shows 27.4 per cent of those questioned admitting to a high regard for the Vice President. That may not sound high, but Lyndon B. Johnson polled only 23.7 per cent in the "enthusiasm quotient" test after a year as Veep. The public still attaches a bit of Throttlebottomery to the Vice Presidency, for all its new rank.

A home which sells for $15,000 in Texas or Iowa would cost $30,000 in France. It would cost $20,000 in Italy.

The difference in cost of homes in southern Europe and the United States can be traced largely to efficiency in construction techniques.

Semi - automated home building was made possible by mass demand for good, new housing. Creation of this demand has been a major accomplishment of local newspaper advertising during the past fifteen years.

"Today, I can sell a $20,000 home to people who would not consider paying more than $7,000 for a house in 1950. It wasn't the money; it just took people a long time to realize that they could enjoy the benefits of the more costly investment," one of the nation's leading home builders asserts.

"Of course, advertising was essential--big, hardselling advertisements, week after week, year after year," he added. "That advertising has helped us to change the face of cities. It has provided thousands of good jobs."

It is notable that the advertising and promotion which guide the home construction boom in America was 80 per cent local newspaper advertising.

No other medium could present to all potential home buyers details on plans, lots, construction, and financing, with maps, photographs, and illustrations.

PRICE APPEAL ISN'T ENOUGH

Retail businessmen are finding that it is becoming increasingly difficult to attract floor traffic on price appeal alone.

It seems everyone is putting too much emphasis on price alone.

Price is still an appeal, of coure. But generally, customers are looking for more than just price.

To remind customers of the price--and more than the price--consistently is something that can be done effectively in your newspaper. Your paper is the only advertising medium that gets into the home in material form. It waits until the family can get together and discuss the purchase.

Use your newspaper to keep customers informed.

Testifying before the Senate Finance Committee on the medicare proposal, Dr. Donovan F. Ward, president of the American Medical Association, said: "The American system of medicine for generations has been a system of quality medicine practiced through a voluntary relationship between patients and physicians, with doctors free to make decisions based on the patients' specific needs and nothing else. Forget for a moment the staggering, though unpredictable, cost of the pending program. Ignore the administrative problems that it would create, and the burden it means for wage earners at the low end of the income scale. Look only at the intrusion of Government in the field of medicine, which cannot be avoided if this measure is adopted. With the quantity of care thus restricted for the sake of controlling costs, the quality must deteriorate. The patient is the ultimate sufferer."

CREDIT WHEN DUE

It has often been charged that drug companies never reduce the price of products on which they have exclusive rights, and, further, that prices are never reduced on important new drugs until years after they have gone on the market.

A recent announcement by one of the major drug companies, Eli Lilly and Company, casts an interesting and revealing light on that charge.

It has to do with a new antibiotic carrying the registered name Keflin, which is a highly effective weapon against many life-threatening infections. It resulted from a breakthrough in chemistry in the company's laboratories, which enabled the scientists to produce it from a substance, cephalosporin, which previously had been so weak as to have little practical usefulness. Research on antibiotics from this source has been pursued by scientists of three countries over a 19 year period.

On April 19, less than six months after Keflin was introduced, Lilly announced a 20 per cent reduction in its price. This, the announcement said, is in line with its policy of lowering prices when economics of production permit. At the same time, the company disclosed that accelerated production has enabled it to lift the previous restriction that Keflin be reserved for critically ill patients in hospitals.

The critics of the drug industry conveniently overlook achievements and events such as this.

NOTE CUT IN EARMARKED TAXES

A significant reduction in the percentage of state taxes earmarked--out of total state tax collections -- for particular governmental purposes is noted in a new Tax Foundation, Inc. study. In fiscal 1954, just over 50 percent was earmarked; by fiscal 1963 earmarking for such activities as education, roads, welfare, etc., had been cut to 40 percent.

The new study, Earmarked State Taxes, shows that in New Mexico, for example, 80 percent of tax collections was earmarked in 1954; in 1963, only 31 percent.

In 1954, North Dakota earmarked all, and Missouri, one-third of sales tax receipts for education. In 1963, both put all sales tax receipts into their general funds, partly explaining declines in the proportions earmarked by 30 percentage points in North Dakota and 17 in Missouri.

The study also shows, for instance, that of the 37 states levying a general sales tax, 21 earmarked it in fiscal 1963 (most recent year for which complete state figures are available.)

Of 47 states levying tobacco taxes, 26 earmarked them in 1963; of 50 levying alcoholic beverage excise taxes, 24 earmarked them.

LANDMARK DECISIONS

The Supreme Court has handed down a series of decisions which have been described as "landmarks". They deal with the rights of employers in labor-management disputes.

In one, the Court held that an employer has an absolute right to terminate his entire business for any reason he chooses, although this right is qualified where only part of the business is terminated for antiunion reasons.

In a second, overruling a National Labor Relations Board decision, the Court held that an employer may temporarily lock out employees for the sole purpose of bringing economic pressure to bear in support of his legitimate bargaining position where an impasse has been reached in bargaining.

In a third in which the NLRB also was overruled, the Court held that members of a multiemployer bargaining group could not only lock out their employees where one of the group was being struck, but could also continue to operate their business with temporary help where such employer conduct was not demonstrably destructive of employees' rights.

These far-reaching decisions, let it be noted, come from a Court with very strong liberal leanings. Seemingly, they go a long way toward establishing a fair balance between the proper powers of employer and employee groups in the making and resisting of demands. A great many people have long believed that the NLRB has often been too favorable toward labor. The High Court apparently agrees.

The St. Louis Post Dispatch says the imponderable question for the war boys in Washington is, will Russia and China step in when and if Unk steps up the war? Best answer to that question is to ask another question. What would Unk do if Canada or Mexico was being threatened by troops from Asia? It's our studied opinion that Unk should take stock of himself and face reality once. We no longer have automic monopoly since the 100 billion giveaway has made us enemies instead of friends. Unk's a po boy without allies. Its only reasonable to suppose the Asians will permit enough dough boys to get in the trap to make it worth while to snap it shut. BASIC ISSUES

Many thoughtful Americans have long hoped to see a fine, enlightening, clear-cut debate on the issues between the two basic viewpoints on public issues here in America which are usually labelled "Right" and "Left". They have hoped for such a debate in order to clear up the meaning of these ambiguous words and make more sense out of our public discussions.

So far their hopes have not been realized. Far from growing clearer, debate on public issues in America seems to be becoming more and more muddy. Slogans are used as a substitute for thought. Hollow words such as "extremism", untouched by even a grain of solid, specific meaning, become more popular. Whatever meaning "Right" and "Left" may once have had, they should be substituted with Constructive and Liberal and people permitted to judge.

The basic issue in America as in the world today is individualism against collectivism, man against the state. Only a handful of true fanatics actually want to see the state abolished, or a state that pays no attention whatever to individuals. But the current of our times has set in the direction of the ever-growing state, and this is the issue we must debate.

Believers in individualism have always been willing to debate this issue on its fundamentals. They urge Americans to study and make up their minds on the question of just how much power governments ought to have.

By contrast, the collectivist seek always to hide their own goals and to pretend that no basic issues exist to be debated, only a choice between this and that government program. HLH

NEW YORK AP -- If I had life to live all over, I think I'd become the owner of a junk yard.

A junk yard proprietor can collect all the fascinating oddments he wants and nobody thinks he is crazy. He can even put them out in public without being arrested as a community nuisance.

If I couldn't raise the cash to buy, build or acquire a junk yard, I believe I'd like to work in a pawn shop. It is so much fun merely to look in the window of a real old - fashioned pawn shop that a job inside it must be ten times as exciting as working in a bank where all you see is old and new money.

"In my opinion, what you're really trying to do is turn your home into a combined junk yard and pawn shop," says my wife, Frances.

So far as I can see there is always a cold war going on in this world between the keepers and the destroyers.

The keepers are the hoarders. They want to hold on to everything. They cling to an object long after it is of any real actual use "Maybe it'll come in handy some time later," they say hopefully.

The destroyers are just the opposite. They don't want to hold on to anything much, except maybe some nice clean gilt-edged bonds that don't take up too much room. Everything else they are always marking for discard. It has to be broken up, given away, or thrown down the incinerator. In any case it must be gotten not only out of sight but out of the house.

Perhaps I am unfair to the destroyers, but it seems to me they miss some of the great joys of living. They invariably have neat homes, but who wants to spend all his time in a polished paradise? It has no variety. Its endless perfection creates finally a feeling of mental suffocation.

We are a mixture of keepers and destroyers on our apartment house floor. One family, for example, as soon as one issue of a magazine comes out, instantly puts the previous issue out for the hallman to get rid of.

This seems to me sheer madness. I pick up the magazine and bring it into our apartment. I have a gentleman's agreement with my wife: She is free to throw the magazine out after nine months, whether any of us have read it or not.

Like most keeper types, I have a treasure trove of triviality that holds vast meaning to me but wouldn't fetch 50 cents at a rummage sale. Most of it consists of old clothing I cling to which is now so battered it would be inappropriate even to wear on a fishing trip with Bowery bums.

I hold on to it because of a theory I have that long loyalties give life its finest moments.

My wife is mildly sympathetic to this theory and goes along with it as far as she can. But now and then she rebels.

The other day she pulled off the rack one of my ties--the wide, wide kind--that used to be popular somewhat earlier in the century.

"You know you'll never need this one," she said. "That shape is out of style."

"Well, if husbands threw away neckties for that reason, they might start doing the same thing to wives," I told her.

"That'll be enough of that kind of talk, Rover," she said.

But she put the tie back on the rack.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Two congressmen, one from the South, one a Negro, recently handled problems of traffic violations and relatives in diametrically different manners. One was Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem N. Y., the other Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa, Texas.

The latter is the once obscure congressman who has become the darling of Madison Avenue because he acted as messenger boy for the big tobacco companies and the big networks in regard to FTC and FCC regulation of advertising.

Rep. Rogers also believes in nepotism and has his son Tom on the federal payroll as a clerk in the House post office. The other day Tom was driving the wrong way down a one-way Capitol Hill street when Capitol policeman James Brick of Des Moines, Iowa, tried to stop him.

Young Rogers failed to stop. Officer Brick finally caught up with him and asked to see his driver's license. Young Rogers insulted him with vulgar language and Brick in turn took the congressman's son to the police room.

"I'll save you a lot of trouble," said the haughty young man. "My father is a congressman and if you let me call him, I'll get out of this."

Rogers called his father. Rep. Rogers is not only able to throw his weight around on Madison Avenue, but with the Capitol police. His son was promptly released. A phone call to Capt. Howard Quantrille did it.

When I called Capt. Quantrille to ask if the son of a congressman got favored treatment with Capitol police, he was frank.

"You can probably say yes," he replied.

When I called young Rogers he was not so frank. He acted as if the policeman had been completely in the wrong.

"It was all a misunderstanding," he said. "The policeman's wife had had a baby that day and he was nervous. I wish you would call my father. He called the police officer and apologies were given."

RACE DISCRIMINATION

The same policeman, James Brick, was directing traffic outside of the new Rayburn Building when Robert Flemming, husband of Louise Dargans, Powell's $19,000-a-year administrative aide, drove through Brick's "stop" signal. The young cop followed Flemming into the building garage and an argument followed. Flemming was insulting.

Brick later went to Miss Dargans' office to protest her husband's intemperate behavior. This got him nowhere. Miss Dargans ordered him out of the office. She charged that he was trying to persecute her husband because of his "color." Fearing that he might be reprimanded by police superiors after this episode, Brick decided to take the matter up with the congressman from Harlem personally.

Powell hit the ceiling--though not in anger against Brick.

"You were only doing your duty," he told Brick. "My secretary and her husband were wrong, not you. I'm sick and tired of having my name bandied like popcorn on Capitol Hill. We'll get this straightened out right now."

He summoned Miss Dargans and gave her a stern lecture, then phoned Rep. Neal Smith, D-Ia., Brick's patronage sponsor.

"This young man is absolutely in the right," he said. "I just want you to know that if there are any repercussions against him, he should come to me and I'll see that his police superiors are properly advised of what happened."

Anyway, the Senator got the President on the phone and told him he was deeply offended. Johnson denied whispering any ideas to White, but the senator from Arkansas wasn't entirely convinced. He remembered the column White wrote at the President's request praising Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., for supporting LBJ's foreign policy.

Negroes Planning Sit-Downs In Union Offices Across the Land.

Washington, D. C.: -- With the cook-out season ending, many construction and building union leaders will return from their summer "places" to find their headquarters full of sitins.

Their regional offices are next on the NAACP's list.

The demonstrators, led by a one man whirlwind, Herbert Hill, the NAACP's Labor Director, are zeroing in on the men they believe are preventing Negroes from preparing for hundreds of thousands of jobs soon to be created by vast federal multi - billion dollar projects.

Already there have been sitdowns in AFL-CIO offices in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. Hill's legions are preparing to move in other industrial cities -- mostly in the north. Their battle cry has it that despite all the speeches and the bold Title Seven of the Civil Rights Act, few Negroes are getting into the construction unions.

And that fewer Negroes -- especially the young fellows -- are being permitted into the apprentice system so they can qualify to become skilled workmen. For Hill's legions, this is the zero hour. It takes years to acquire skills. Yet the government is about to start spending billions through its new Department of Urban Renewal and Housing, and on long ribbons of concrete roads, and on Appalachia and on university "plants" and headquarters installations from which to fight poverty.

Of course, the White House wants none of this quick-triggering series of conflicts, perhaps man-to-man battling, between angry Negroes and local union rank and filers.

Sophisticated White House specialists know that it isn't a matter of the union's rank and file hating Negroes as much as it is the rank and file's love of money in those high-wage pay envelopes. In addition to loving coin for themselves, they want their blood relatives to cut in on the high priced jobs. There are local unions where some 80 per cent of the new openings have gone to sons and nephews of members.

Bluntly, the resistance is within the rank and file and not among the national general presidents of even the regional leaders of some 3 million building and construction unionists.

So the White House has quietly set up a tiny, four-man task force to study the magic formula, Title Seven. The team is made up of little known technicians. Their assignment is to dig out of "the big Seven" the weapons with which to punish the recalcitrant overwhelmingly white locals.

Already enough power has been found in "Seven" to put union leaders in prison, if they absolutely refuse to permit considerable numbers of Negroes to take the qualifiying examinations for entrance to the unions or the apprenticeship lists.

This will come as a shock to some business agents but it can be done. Any man can sue a union now if he believes he is being blacklisted against because of race, color, creed or national origin. Or the Justice Dept. can order its regional attorney to take court action. Or Franklin Roosevelt's Equal Employment Opportunity Commission can move in.

If they prove their case, they have a court order directing the union to open its ranks. And not just any broad warning.

There is a case in New York City where one sheet metal workers' local has been told by the court just how many Negroes to admit, just when to hold examinations, just exactly what to do with its training classes. In other words the court took the entire matter right out of the union's hands. So there now is a Negro member for the first time in 77 years.

Defiance of such court orders could bring prison terms for comtempt. Or, moves could be made to decertify a union -- which means removing its control over construction jobs.

Or it could be banned from sending its members out on any project if a single federal dollar is involved -- be it FHA money or a Department of Defense dollar, or a road. Or even state money.

Furthermore, the White House is placing enforcement power in the hands of various cabinet members, the Civil Service Commission and the new President's Council on Equal Opportunities.

It was a hot summer. And now it looks like a very warm winter.

Mrs. Stanley Harold Lumsden

Miss Mary Annette Jamar Is Wed To Stanley H. Lumsden

BLOOMFIELD -- The wedding of Miss Mary Annette Jamar and Stanley Harold Lumsden took place Sunday afternoon, August 29, at Trinity Methodist Church in Bloomfield. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Leland Jamar and the late Mr. Jamar. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lumsden of Essex.

The Rev. Sterling Aubuchon, minister of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. James Walker, at the organ, provided the nuptial music and accompanied Jack Garner of Fulton who sang "I Love You Truly", "Whither Thou Goest", and "The Lord's Prayer."

Gleaming yellow tapers in white arched candelabra lighted the altar. Baskets of yellow killian daisies, flanked by arrangements of palm ferns, completed the setting.

Given in marriage by her brother, Robert Jamar, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie. The fitted bodice, trimmed with lace applique and seed pearls, was fashioned with a rounded neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The skirt, very bouffant, had appliqued lace motifs across the entire front, with the pattern repeated on the detachable chapel train. A coronet of pearlized orange blossoms secured her veil of silk illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white marguerite daisies and stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a diamond pendant, a gift from the groom.

Miss Marilyn Kay Jackson of St. Louis, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of pale yellow dotted swiss with a fitted bodice and short bell sleeves. The skirt featured a scalloped hem line dotted with white embroidered daisies. A yellow ribbon caught in a center bow at the waistline and a picture frame hat of the same material as her gown completed her costume. She carried a nosegay of white marguerite daisies.

Bridesmaids were Miss Judy Brown and Miss Carol Moore and Mrs. James Clay. Their gowns and headpieces were of the same style and color as the maid of honor's. Their flowers were colonial bouquets of white marguerite daisies.

Candlelighters, Miss Gail Russell of Poplar Bluff and Miss Toni Richmond, wore pale yellow gowns similar to those worn by the bridesmaids. They had wrist corsages of yellow marguerite daisies.

Little Teresa Gaye Essary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Essary of Poplar Bluff, was flower girl. Her floor-length gown of white dotted swiss, tied with a yellow velvet ribbon at the waistline, had short puffed sleeves and a rounded neckline accented with tiny yellow daisies.

Best man was Lieutenant Jerry Twaddell of Del Rio, Texas, brother-in-law of the groom. Groomsmen were Donald Doll, Paul Friemel, and Karl Kruse, all of St. Louis. Darrell Moss and James Clay of Essex, and Ronald Taylor of Dexter seated the guests.

Mrs. Jamar, mother of the bride, wore a beige dress of peau de soie with a lace overlaid bodice. Her accessories of beige were complemented with a mint green petal hat and a corsage of green cimbidium orchids. Mrs. Lumsden's dress of turquoise lace was styled with a matching jacket. She wore accessories of the same color, and her corsage was formed of white cimbidium orchids.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bridal table, laid with a white linen cutwork cloth, was centered with a four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Crystal candelabra holding tall white tapers and cyrstal punch bowls completed the table appointments. Serving the guests were Mrs. Clyde Essary and Mrs. Bill Penn, Poplar Bluff, cousins of the bride; and Mrs. Jerry Twaddell, sister of the groom, who was also in charge of the guest register.

For her wedding trip, the bride wore a pale yellow silk shantung suit, featuring a ruffled jacket, with matching accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The former Miss Jamar attended San Jose State College in California, and was a student at Murray State College, Murray, Ky., the past year. She will enter the University of Missouri, Columbia, this fall and continue work on her journalism major. Mr. Lumsden, a junior at the University of Missouri, is majoring in agriculture. He is enrolled also in advanced officer training in the U. S. Air Force which will lead to a commission upon graduation. The young couple will reside in Columbia.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I've wanted to be a newspaperman all my life. My dad, who is a physician, told me that of all the people he has encountered in his career, newspapermen are the worst lushes.

Three years ago I graduated from the University of Missouri and went to work on a small town daily. In May I applied for a job on a larger paper and was hired. The day I started there was a big flap about the city editor missing a big story because the guy who was supposed to be covering it was stiff. It turns out that the city editor was not exactly sober himself. This led to a blast-off from the executive offices.

A notice was posted on the bulletin board saying no liquor would be allowed on the premises and anyone caught with a bottle in his desk was automatically canned.

This morning I was called into the editor's office. He handed me a bottle of Bourbon and said, "This was found in your desk drawer." I denied knowledge of the booze and was put on probation. I don't drink but I know who does. However, I'm not the rat-fink type. Got the picture? What should my next move be--if anything?--BLUE NOSE

Dear Nose: I've got the picture--and you got the frame. Keep your desk drawers locked and give a set of keys to the editor and invite him to check for himself whenever he feels like it.

And you can tell your dad for me that some doctors lush it up pretty good, too.

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago our second child was born with a heart defect. We lost him the week before his first birthday. Several months later we had another child.

When people ask me how many children we have I tell them "Two," but my heart cries "No--we have three."

At times I have actually said "Three," then the questions start. People want to know how old the children are and so on. I become terrible upset. I am writing to ask you how I should answer the question -- with my heart or my head? --UNFORGETTING MOTHER.

Dear Mother: The correct answer is "Two." If it's easier to say, "We have two children and we lost a boy last year," go ahead, but be prepared for questions and expressions of sympathy--all of which will only keep the tragedy fresh in your mind.

Dear Ann Landers: An attractive, divorced woman who works in our office is a great help to me when it comes to accounting problems. She is my right hand. My wife met Wilma at an office party two years ago and she's been like a dog with a bone ever since--she just won't let go of it. Almost every day it's a question about Wilma. Did I see her at lunch? Did I give her a lift home?

Two weeks ago Wilma had her appendix out. I sent her a bouquet of flowers. I didn't see any point in putting my wife's name on the card. Wilma knows my wife doesn't like her.

When Wilma left the hospital I visited her at home. There was no point in asking my wife to go, it would only have started an argument.

Somehow my wife got wind of the flowers and the visit and she really took my hide off. Do you think my wife has a right to be sore over a couple of innocent little acts of friendship? Don't forget, Wilma is my right hand. --ARTY

Dear Arty: When the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing there's usually trouble. So why don't you cut your wife in on those innocent little acts of friendship? Then you wouldn't have to worry about how things sound when she hears them from others.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MUSINGS OF A MAMA

School has started, and here I sit
In the warm September sun without a bit
Of anything I have to do.
The street is so quiet and the yard so still.
The house is all clean and will stay until
The boys come in from school.
Mamas who say "I'll be glad when school starts."
Are trying to cover the ache in their hearts --
That lonesomeness they know
Boys grow up and are gone for good.
I want mine near me -- but really I should
Go bake some cookies now.

Dear Nose: I've got the picture--and you got the frame. Keep your desk drawers locked and give a set of keys to the editor and invite him to check for himself whenever he feels like it.

And you can tell your dad for me that some doctors lush it up pretty good, too.

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago our second child was born with a heart defect. We lost him the week before his first birthday. Several months later we had another child.

When people ask me how many children we have I tell them "Two," but my heart cries "No--we have three."

At times I have actually said "Three," then the questions start. People want to know how old the children are and so on. I become terrible upset. I am writing to ask you how I should answer the question -- with my heart or my head? --UNFORGETTING MOTHER.

Dear Mother: The correct answer is "Two." If it's easier to say, "We have two children and we lost a boy last year," go ahead, but be prepared for questions and expressions of sympathy--all of which will only keep the tragedy fresh in your mind.

Dear Ann Landers: An attractive, divorced woman who works in our office is a great help to me when it comes to accounting problems. She is my right hand. My wife met Wilma at an office party two years ago and she's been like a dog with a bone ever since--she just won't let go of it. Almost every day it's a question about Wilma. Did I see her at lunch? Did I give her a lift home?

Two weeks ago Wilma had her appendix out. I sent her a bouquet of flowers. I didn't see any point in putting my wife's name on the card. Wilma knows my wife doesn't like her.

When Wilma left the hospital I visited her at home. There was no point in asking my wife to go, it would only have started an argument.

Somehow my wife got wind of the flowers and the visit and she really took my hide off. Do you think my wife has a right to be sore over a couple of innocent little acts of friendship? Don't forget, Wilma is my right hand. --ARTY

Dear Arty: When the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing there's usually trouble. So why don't you cut your wife in on those innocent little acts of friendship? Then you wouldn't have to worry about how things sound when she hears them from others.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MUSINGS OF A MAMA

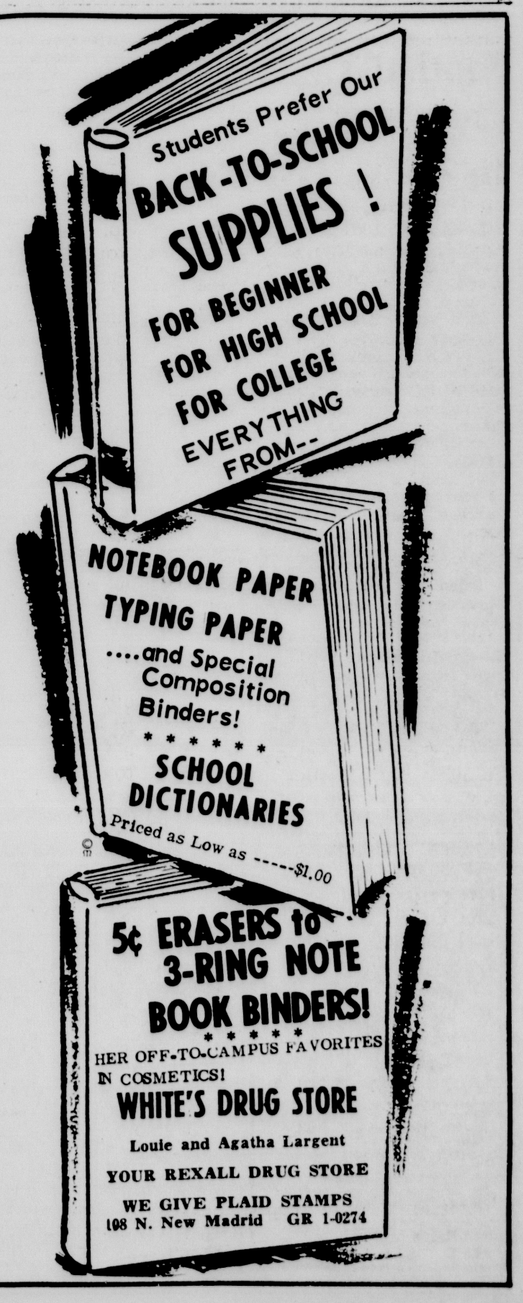

School has started, and here I sit
In the warm September sun without a bit
Of anything I have to do.
The street is so quiet and the yard so still.
The house is all clean and will stay until
The boys come in from school.
Mamas who say "I'll be glad when school starts."
Are trying to cover the ache in their hearts --
That lonesomeness they know
Boys grow up and are gone for good.
I want mine near me -- but really I should
Go bake some cookies now.

Cards Blast Reds; Mays Ties Home Run Mark

Willie's Booming Bat Boosts Giants into NL Second Spot

St. Louis again Sunday kept the Cincinnati Reds from climbing up the back of the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League beating the Reds, 10-4, in Cincinnati.

The victory gave the Cardinals the series, two games to one, and left the Reds 1½ games back.

The Cardinal victory was their fifth in seven games, but left them 10 games back in seventh place.

The triumph was particularly pleasing because of the performance of Ray Sadecki, a tremendous disappointment this season after winning 20 games last year.

Sadecki survived one bad inning — the fifth when Tommy Harper and Vada Pinson each hit two-run homers—and scored only his fourth victory against 11 defeats. The Reds socked him for 10 hits, but he walked no one and struck out six.

By the time the Reds unleashed their power, the Cardinals had built a 10-0 lead with their pop-gun attack. Dick Groat and Julian Javier each stroked two run singles as the Cardinals scored five runs in the third and four in the fifth.

The Chicago Cubs orbited five homers Sunday for a 10-2 victory over the fourth-place Braves that dropped them 2½ games off the National League lead with their sixth consecutive defeat.

And the gopher ball has proved the Braves' undoing in all six games. During that stretch the opposition has scored 31 runs — 23 coming on 12 homers.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, held on to their 1½-game lead despite a 13-3 clubbing by Philadelphia as the chasers continued to hop up and down the standings.

Willie Mays hit a league record 17th homer in one month as San Francisco belted the New York Mets 8-3 and moved into second place. Cincinnati dropped to third, one percentage point behind the Giants and 1½ games back of the Dodgers, after a 10-4 loss to St. Louis.

The streaking Pittsburgh Pirates climbed back to within 4½ of the top by downing Houston 4-2 for their eighth victory in nine games.

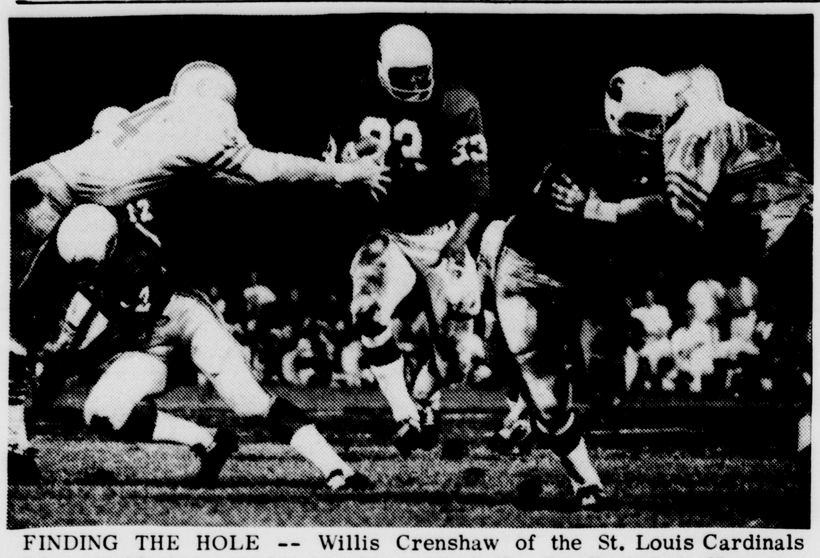

In the American League, Cleveland defeated Minnesota 3-1, Washington defeated Baltimore 5-4 in 12 innings, Detroit nipped the Los Angeles Angels 2-1, the New York Yankees downed Kansas City 4-3 and the Chicago White Sox took two from Boston by 3-2 scores, the first in 14 innings.

Billy Williams started the Cubs' homer assault in the third inning, Santo hit a two-run shot in the sixth and Banks followed with his first. Banks hit a three-run homer in the eighth — No. 399 of his career — before Santo wrapped it up with a ninth inning solo. With that support, Bill Faul had it easy as he brought his record to 4-3 by scattering seven Milwaukee hits.

The Phillies blasted five Dodger pitchers starting with Claude Osteen, 11-13, for four homers and three triples as Richie Allen collected one of each. Alex Johnson, who wound up with four hits, Pat Corrales and Bobby Wine also homered while Dick Stuart and Tony Taylor joined the triple hitters. Ray Culp, 9-9, checked the Dodgers on five hits.

Mays broke Ralph Kiner's record for most homers in one month, and moved to within one of Rudy York's major league mark, when he hit a three-run shot that climaxed the Giants' five-run outburst in the third.

Willie Stargell drove in the Pirates' first two runs with a triple and a single before Bill Mazeroski singled and Jim Pagliaroni doubled in the sixth inning and broke a 2-2 tie. Wilbur Wood, working in relief of Bob Friend, won his first while Don Nottebart, 4-12, lost it.

FINDING THE HOLE -- Willis Crenshaw of the St. Louis Cardinals picks up blocking as he carries against the San Francisco 49ers in a National Football League exhibition contest in St. Louis. Prentis Gautt, 22, takes out Dave Wilcox while Herschel Turner, 63, blocks Charlie Krueger. The two teams tied, 17-17.

Speculation Clouds Role for Alvin Dark

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY A(P) — Alvin Dark will study Kansas City and American League personnel this season in his new job as owner Charles O. Finley's administrative assistant. His future role with the A's is a matter of speculation.

Finley himself left the door open after first emphasizing Saturday that Dark "will report to no one but me." He outlined Dark's 1964 duties, then said:

"What he might do in the future, I don't know myself."

Asked whether he knew who would manage the A's in 1965, Finley said:

"Haywood Sullivan has a contract to manage and that's all I can say."

The 43-year-old Dark, 14 years a major league shortstop and four years the manager of the San Francisco Giants, said: "As far as I'm concerned, I'm through managing."

But Dark also said: "I'll do anything Mr. Finley wants me to do."

Dark said his new job is something like Eddie Stanky's with the New York Mets. Dark and Stanky were teammates on the 1948 champion Braves.

Dark said he enjoyed managing but now he is looking forward to the challenge of building up the A's organization. He had an agreement in his coaching job with the Chicago Cubs, he said, that he could leave any time he had a chance to better himself.

Finley said he was flattered that Dark asked him for a job and he felt he could not pass up the chance to hire a man with Dark's "quality and ability." He said if he didn't hire him, some other club would.

The flamoyant, controversial owner insisted that if Dark came to him six months, a year or 18 months ago he still would have hired him at once.

Dark's Giants won the 1962 pennant but his last year as manager was clouded by stories — which he firmly denied — that he was having trouble handling Negro and Latin American players. Asked about this, Finley said: "It occurred to me, but I didn't ask him about it."

Finley said "yessir" when asked whether this meant he believed in the man and not the stories.

Speculation about Dark's future role is bound to continue because of the history of Finley's managerial moves. The last two managers before Sullivan, Ed Lopat and Mel Mc[illegible]na, both were brought in as coaches and advisors before they took over on the field.

Sullivan, brought in from Vancouver, has a creditable 41-61 record. The club has picked up, with a 23-29 mark since the all-star game, but still must play .500 ball the rest of the way to avoid losing 100 games once again.

Attendance is expected to reach about 515,000, a 19 per cent drop from last season but creditable in view of two straight seasons in last place, on the heels of Finley's bitter lease dispute with the city.

Finley may view Dark as a boon at the box office in '66.

'Big Poison' Waner, Among Baseball's Greatest, Dies

SARASOTA, Fla. AP -- Paul Big Poison Waner, member of baseball's Hall of Fame and pound for pound one of the greatest players in the history of the game, is dead at 62.

Waner, nicknamed Big Poison because at 153 he weighed three pounds more than his brother, Lloyd Little Poison, died at his home here Sunday. He had been in failing health for several years and underwent surgery last March, but cause of death was not announced.

The Waner brothers played with the Pittsburgh Pirates for many years and formed one of the most famous brother combinations in baseball, starring both afield and at the plate.

"Pound for pound, Paul was the greatest," said his close friend, Heinie Manush, also a Hall of Famer. "I knew him since 1927. What a great guy he was!"

Waner was also an outstanding golfer and won the National Baseball Players' Golf Championship in 1938, beating Babe Ruth in the finals.

After he retired from baseball, Paul settle in Sarasota and his golfing partner was Manush, a former star with Washington and Cleveland.

Both Paul and Lloyd, who survives, stood 5-foot-8 1/2; both had exceptional speed and fine coordination. They learned baseball on the farm at Harrah, Okla., where they grew up.

Paul often said he learned to follow the ball by using a home-made bat and a corncob for a ball.

"I have never batted a curve ball thrown by any pitcher," he once said, "that was as hard to hit as the cobs the boys used to throw at me down on the farm. That was where I learned to follow the ball."

Both Paul and Lloyd were left-handers and played the outfield for 20 years before retiring from the majors in 1945.

Mark Making Hansen Raises Flag Chances

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ron Hansen had 28 chances. The Chicago White Sox will settle for one.

Hansen, Chicago's busy shortstop, set a major league record with his chances while helping the White Sox improve theirs in the American League pennant race.

The White Sox swept a pair of 3-2 games from Boston Sunday and moved to within 6½ games of league - leading Minnesota, which lost to Cleveland 3-1.

Hansen had a total of 18 assists and putouts in the 14-inning opener and 10 in the second game, erasing the old record for a shortstop in a doubleheader of 26 established by Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh in 1940.

His first-game total also tied the AL mark for an extra-inning game shared by four other players.

The double victory certainly enhanced whatever chance the White Sox may have for overhauling Minnesota. They, or anyone else, were given virtually no chance two weeks ago.

But since Aug. 13 Chicago has won 15 games and lost only four while the Twins have been 9-8. As a result the White Sox have stormed from fifth place, 11½ games out, to second, 6½ out.

In other games Sunday Detroit edged Los Angeles 2-1, Washington nipped Baltimore 5-4 in 12 innings and New York halted Kansas City's four-game winning streak 4-3.

Rookie pitcher Steve Hargan halted repeated Minnesota threats in the first six innings. The Twins got 10 runners in scoring position in that time, but only one — Zoilo Versalles — made it home. Fred Whitfield drove in two Cleveland runs with a sacrifice fly and a single.

New York snapped its scoreless string at 21 innings and went on to defeat the Athletics behind home runs by Elston Howard and Jake Gibbs. Al Downing, now 11-12, allowed just five hits and struck out 12.

The Senators downed Baltimore for the sixth straight time, scoring the winning run in the 12th when Brooks Robinson threw wildly on Ken Hamlin's single. Washington had tied it 4-4 in the sixth on a walk to Jim King and Woodie Held's triple.

Ray Oyler's seventh-inning homer brought Detroit's four-game losing streak to an end and extended Fred Newman's losing string to six. Newman forced in a first-inning run by hitting Willie Horton with the bases loaded, and Los Angeles tied it in the second on singles by Bobby Knoop, Bob Rodgers and Paul Schaal.

Football Takes Lives of Five In Four Days

The death of a 17-year-old high school player in San Antonio, Tex., has raised the toll of football fatalities to five in the past four days.

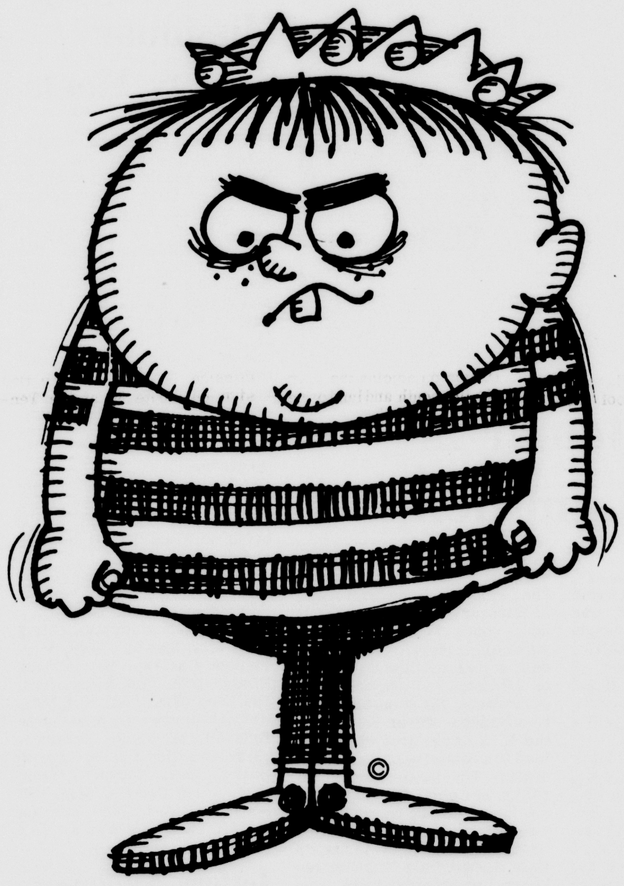

Cruz Medellin, who collapsed after a tackling drill last Friday at Lanier High School, died Sunday in a San Antonio hospital. A blood vessel had ruptured at the base of the youngster's brain.

A college sophomore and three schoolboys died during practice sessions Thursday and Friday.

The death of John C. Devlin, 19-year-old fullback at South Carolina State College, Orangeburg, S. C., was attributed to sunstroke. Heat prostration also claimed David Toynbee, 15, of Atlanta, after a Forest Park High School scrimmage in 108-degree temperature.

Art Willis, 17, of Las Cruces, N. M., High School, got up after being tackled in a drill and started back to the huddle but collapsed and was dead on arrival at a Las Cruces hospital.

Edgar R. Fouts, 15, died at a Sioux City hospital from head injuries suffered in tackling practice at West Monona High School, Oonawa, Iowa.

Cards Blast Reds; Mays Ties Home Run Mark

Willie's Booming Bat Boosts Giants into NL Second Spot

St. Louis again Sunday kept the Cincinnati Reds from climbing up the back of the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League beating the Reds, 10-4, in Cincinnati.

The victory gave the Cardinals the series, two games to one, and left the Reds 1½ games back.

The Cardinal victory was their fifth in seven games, but left them 10 games back in seventh place.

And the gopher ball has proved the Braves' undoing in all six games. During that stretch the opposition has scored 31 runs — 23 coming on 12 homers.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, held on to their 1½-game lead despite a 13-3 clubbing by Philadelphia as the chasers continued to hop up and down the standings.

Willie Mays hit a league record 17th homer in one month as San Francisco belted the New York Mets 8-3 and moved into second place. Cincinnati dropped to third, one percentage point behind the Giants and 1½ games back of the Dodgers, after a 10-4 loss to St. Louis.

The streaking Pittsburgh Pirates climbed back to within 4½ of the top by downing Houston 4-2 for their eighth victory in nine games.

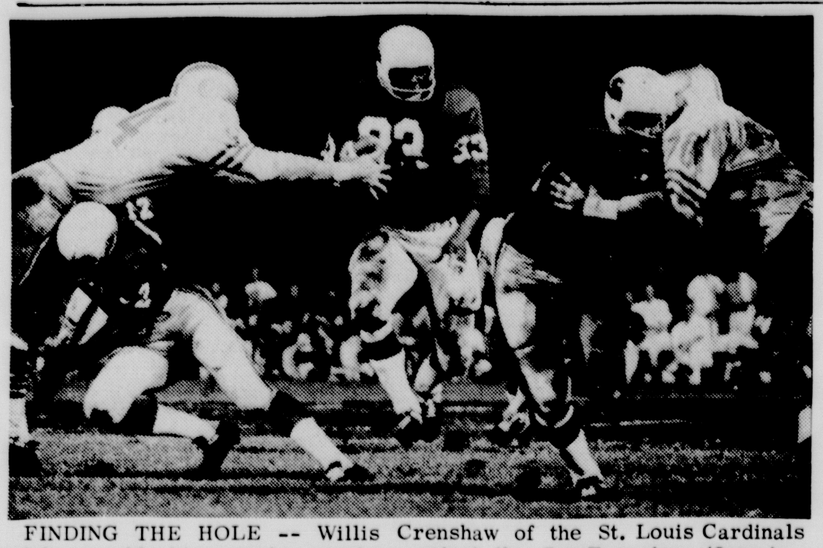

In the American League, Cleveland defeated Minnesota 3-1, Washington defeated Baltimore 5-4 in 12 innings, Detroit nipped the Los Angeles Angels 2-1, the New York Yankees downed Kansas City 4-3 and the Chicago White Sox took two from Boston by 3-2 scores, the first in 14 innings.

Billy Williams started the Cubs' homer assault in the third inning, Santo hit a two-run shot in the sixth and Banks followed with his first. Banks hit a three-run homer in the eighth — No. 399 of his career — before Santo wrapped it up with a ninth inning solo. With that support, Bill Faul had it easy as he brought his record to 4-3 by scattering seven Milwaukee hits.

The Phillies blasted five Dodger pitchers starting with Claude Osteen, 11-13, for four homers and three triples as Richie Allen collected one of each. Alex Johnson, who wound up with four hits, Pat Corrales and Bobby Wine also homered while Dick Stuart and Tony Taylor joined the triple hitters. Ray Culp, 9-9, checked the Dodgers on five hits.

Mays broke Ralph Kiner's record for most homers in one month, and moved to within one of Rudy York's major league mark, when he hit a three-run shot that climaxed the Giants' five-run outburst in the third.

Willie Stargell drove in the Pirates' first two runs with a triple and a single before Bill Mazeroski singled and Jim Pagliaroni doubled in the sixth inning and broke a 2-2 tie. Wilbur Wood, working in relief of Bob Friend, won his first while Don Nottebart, 4-12, lost it.

FINDING THE HOLE -- Willis Crenshaw of the St. Louis Cardinals picks up blocking as he carries against the San Francisco 49ers in a National Football League exhibition contest in St. Louis. Prentis Gautt, 22, takes out Dave Wilcox while Herschel Turner, 63, blocks Charlie Krueger. The two teams tied, 17-17.

'Big Poison' Waner, Among Baseball's Greatest, Dies

SARASOTA, Fla. AP -- Paul Big Poison Waner, member of baseball's Hall of Fame and pound for pound one of the greatest players in the history of the game, is dead at 62.

Waner, nicknamed Big Poison because at 153 he weighed three pounds more than his brother, Lloyd Little Poison, died at his home here Sunday. He had been in failing health for several years and underwent surgery last March, but cause of death was not announced.

The Waner brothers played with the Pittsburgh Pirates for many years and formed one of the most famous brother combinations in baseball, starring both afield and at the plate.

"Pound for pound, Paul was the greatest," said his close friend, Heinie Manush, also a Hall of Famer. "I knew him since 1927. What a great guy he was!"

Waner was also an outstanding golfer and won the National Baseball Players' Golf Championship in 1938, beating Babe Ruth in the finals.

After he retired from baseball, Paul settle in Sarasota and his golfing partner was Manush, a former star with Washington and Cleveland.

Both Paul and Lloyd, who survives, stood 5-foot-8 1/2; both had exceptional speed and fine coordination. They learned baseball on the farm at Harrah, Okla., where they grew up.

Paul often said he learned to follow the ball by using a home-made bat and a corncob for a ball.

"I have never batted a curve ball thrown by any pitcher," he once said, "that was as hard to hit as the cobs the boys used to throw at me down on the farm. That was where I learned to follow the ball."

Both Paul and Lloyd were left-handers and played the outfield for 20 years before retiring from the majors in 1945.

Batting 325 at bats -- Clemente, Pittsburgh, .340; Aaron, Milwaukee, and Mays, San Francisco, .324.

Mark Making Hansen Raises Flag Chances

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ron Hansen had 28 chances. The Chicago White Sox will settle for one.

Hansen, Chicago's busy shortstop, set a major league record with his chances while helping the White Sox improve theirs in the American League pennant race.

The White Sox swept a pair of 3-2 games from Boston Sunday and moved to within 6½ games of league - leading Minnesota, which lost to Cleveland 3-1.

Hansen had a total of 18 assists and putouts in the 14-inning opener and 10 in the second game, erasing the old record for a shortstop in a doubleheader of 26 established by Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh in 1940.

His first-game total also tied the AL mark for an extra-inning game shared by four other players.

The double victory certainly enhanced whatever chance the White Sox may have for overhauling Minnesota. They, or anyone else, were given virtually no chance two weeks ago.

But since Aug. 13 Chicago has won 15 games and lost only four while the Twins have been 9-8. As a result the White Sox have stormed from fifth place, 11½ games out, to second, 6½ out.

In other games Sunday Detroit edged Los Angeles 2-1, Washington nipped Baltimore 5-4 in 12 innings and New York halted Kansas City's four-game winning streak 4-3.

Rookie pitcher Steve Hargan halted repeated Minnesota threats in the first six innings. The Twins got 10 runners in scoring position in that time, but only one — Zoilo Versalles — made it home. Fred Whitfield drove in two Cleveland runs with a sacrifice fly and a single.

New York snapped its scoreless string at 21 innings and went on to defeat the Athletics behind home runs by Elston Howard and Jake Gibbs. Al Downing, now 11-12, allowed just five hits and struck out 12.

The Senators downed Baltimore for the sixth straight time, scoring the winning run in the 12th when Brooks Robinson threw wildly on Ken Hamlin's single. Washington had tied it 4-4 in the sixth on a walk to Jim King and Woodie Held's triple.

Ray Oyler's seventh-inning homer brought Detroit's four-game losing streak to an end and extended Fred Newman's losing string to six. Newman forced in a first-inning run by hitting Willie Horton with the bases loaded, and Los Angeles tied it in the second on singles by Bobby Knoop, Bob Rodgers and Paul Schaal.

Football Takes Lives of Five In Four Days

The death of a 17-year-old high school player in San Antonio, Tex., has raised the toll of football fatalities to five in the past four days.

Cruz Medellin, who collapsed after a tackling drill last Friday at Lanier High School, died Sunday in a San Antonio hospital. A blood vessel had ruptured at the base of the youngster's brain.

A college sophomore and three schoolboys died during practice sessions Thursday and Friday.

The death of John C. Devlin, 19-year-old fullback at South Carolina State College, Orangeburg, S. C., was attributed to sunstroke. Heat prostration also claimed David Toynbee, 15, of Atlanta, after a Forest Park High School scrimmage in 108-degree temperature.

Art Willis, 17, of Las Cruces, N. M., High School, got up after being tackled in a drill and started back to the huddle but collapsed and was dead on arrival at a Las Cruces hospital.

Edgar R. Fouts, 15, died at a Sioux City hospital from head injuries suffered in tackling practice at West Monona High School, Oonawa, Iowa.

Speculation Clouds Role for Alvin Dark

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY A(P) — Alvin Dark will study Kansas City and American League personnel this season in his new job as owner Charles O. Finley's administrative assistant. His future role with the A's is a matter of speculation.

Finley himself left the door open after first emphasizing Saturday that Dark "will report to no one but me." He outlined Dark's 1964 duties, then said:

"What he might do in the future, I don't know myself."

Asked whether he knew who would manage the A's in 1965, Finley said:

"Haywood Sullivan has a contract to manage and that's all I can say."

The 43-year-old Dark, 14 years a major league shortstop and four years the manager of the San Francisco Giants, said: "As far as I'm concerned, I'm through managing."

But Dark also said: "I'll do anything Mr. Finley wants me to do."

Dark said his new job is something like Eddie Stanky's with the New York Mets. Dark and Stanky were teammates on the 1948 champion Braves.

Dark said he enjoyed managing but now he is looking forward to the challenge of building up the A's organization. He had an agreement in his coaching job with the Chicago Cubs, he said, that he could leave any time he had a chance to better himself.

Finley said he was flattered that Dark asked him for a job and he felt he could not pass up the chance to hire a man with Dark's "quality and ability." He said if he didn't hire him, some other club would.

The flamoyant, controversial owner insisted that if Dark came to him six months, a year or 18 months ago he still would have hired him at once.

Dark's Giants won the 1962 pennant but his last year as manager was clouded by stories — which he firmly denied — that he was having trouble handling Negro and Latin American players. Asked about this, Finley said: "It occurred to me, but I didn't ask him about it."

Finley said "yessir" when asked whether this meant he believed in the man and not the stories.

Speculation about Dark's future role is bound to continue because of the history of Finley's managerial moves. The last two managers before Sullivan, Ed Lopat and Mel Mcgaha, both were brought in as coaches and advisors before they took over on the field.

Sullivan, brought in from Vancouver, has a creditable 41-61 record. The club has picked up, with a 23-29 mark since the all-star game, but still must play .500 ball the rest of the way to avoid losing 100 games once again.

Attendance is expected to reach about 515,000, a 19 per cent drop from last season but creditable in view of two straight seasons in last place, on the heels of Finley's bitter lease dispute with the city.

Finley may view Dark as a boon at the box office in '66.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB LAUNCHES SCHOOL'S OPEN CAMPAIGN

The Automobile Club of Missouri is launching its 33rd annual September School Opening Safety Campaign by reminding motorists that "School's Open—Drive Carefully."

Auto Club Safety Director Stan Keesling pointed out that more children than ever before will be making the trek back to the blackboard and books, and that many of them will be attending school for the first time — unaware of the hazards of crossing congested intersections, streets and highways. "After a summer of fun and play, children sometimes forget to exercise that extra degree of caution when going to and from school," Mr. Keesling said, "it's up to the individual motorist to watch for the school-bound youngsters."

In emphasizing the need for all drivers to be "child alert" this fall, especially in the vicinity of schools and playgrounds, the Auto Club will post 14,000 posters and distribute 25,000 bumper strips throughout its territory.

Mr. Keesling urged all drivers to cooperate with members of the School Safety Patrol in protecting their classmates and pointed out the need for increased safety consciousness on the part of motorists in areas where there are no School Safety Patrols or other means of protection provided to safeguard the school children.

Cooperating with the Auto Club in the fall safety campaign are city and police officials, school authorities and AAA garages and service stations.

Help make this September the safest back-to-school month ever. Remember, "School's Open — Drive Carefully!"

Drive Carefully, Twitty Urges

This week 4,000 or more public and parochial school children of the community will be starting the 1965-66 school year. Supt. of Schools Lynn Twitty said in the following statement he handed out:

"They will increase both pedestrian and vehicular traffic over the local streets, highways and sidewalks by a very considerable amount. Many of them will be walking to and from school and a fleet of 11 school busses will transport most of those who live more than one mile from the school which they will attend. Many of these youngsters will be going to school for the first time. They will congest streets and crosswalks, especially near the schools. Their judgment as to distance and speed of approaching vehicles is not as good as that of adults. Their safety is the concern of all of us.

"The sight of a school child walking along the streets or highways or the presence of the ubiquitous yellow school bus should alert us to drive with special care.

"The community has been exceptionally safety conscious in the past and thus far we have had no fatalities or serious injuries involving students going to and from school. We think this has been due to a planned safety program involving the schools, the City Government, especially the City Police Force, the State Highway Patrol from the Troopers up to Missouri State Highway Patrol Superintendent, Colonel Hugh Waggoner, the Missouri State Department of Education, the cooperation of local news media and many other individuals and organizations.

"The school safety program includes careful screening and selection of drivers, monthly safety meetings, usually with a representative of the City Police and the Highway Patrol present, careful maintenance of school busses and a school safety patrol of responsible sixth grade students. However, the safety of our school children does not depend upon past record but is a matter of concern every day. We earnestly solicit the continued cooperation of every member of the community, especially drivers of vehicles, in order that our perfect school safety record may continue."

Oil Test Nearer At Pinhook

CHARLESTON -- The dream of many Mississippi Countians for a deep well oil test is a step nearer reality.

The test well, which Mammoth Producing Co. of Clare, Mich., proposes to drill, will be located on an 80-acre tract of land owned by Big Oak Farms in the Pinhook community, 18 miles southeast of Charleston. One thousand feet of 8 5/8 inch pipe and a few miscellaneous drilling tools were deposited at the site last Friday. The sludge pit has been dug awaiting the arrival of the cable took rig and Junior Chapman, who will be in charge of this phase of the operation.

Those who wish to visit the drill site can follow Route 77 through Anniston, and then follow Route 80, AA and FF. The site is .6 of a mile east of Route FF in a small clearing east of a patch of scrub timber owned by Mrs. Annie Roberts Finley. Land owned by M. D. Beaton adjoins the property to the south and land owned by Otha Ivie on the east. The test well site is east of the new brick pinhoof school building.

The procedure to be followed calls for use of the cable ring, and setting of approximately 1,000 feet of pipe. After that the company proposes to use a standard rotary rig which would carry the test to a depth of 5,000 feet if necessary.

The originial test well will also provide the "bench work" for extensive seismographic operations in the southern block leased by Mammoth. Incidentally, the first leases acquired in the southern block were obtained about December 15, 1964, and the first leases in the northern block one month later.

The blacktop route (77) east of Anniston is the dividing line between the north and south blocks.

From a member of the Mammoth Producing Co., came a bit of unsolicited advice for those who have not yet signed leases. "The chances are that one or more free lance agents will soon invade the county looking for leases of one kind or another," this spokesman said. "This can serve no earthly purpose except to muddy up the waters."

Actual drilling operations may be started about the first of the week, and there is a possibility that this first test well can be completed in from 20 to 30 days.

Frank Johnson and R. Q. Brown have been instrumental in getting many of the leases for the firm.

Residents of the East Prairie community who wish to visit the test site should go via Anniston because one bridge is out between East Prairie and Sawdust Corner on Route 80. The route is open to the levee on 80, with one-way traffic over one bridge.

The Ten-mile pond bridge is also temporarily out of commission. A road construction sign on Route 80 at the Ten-mile turnoff states "Road Closed." Information reaching this office states a load of corn fell through the bridge.

The United States is a sovereign nation, but the 50 states which compose it do not have full sovereignty.

Are U. S. Savings Bonds a good investment? Last year the American people answered:

"You're darn right!"

In 1958, Americans owned over 42½ billion dollars in U. S. Savings Bonds — all-time high. It was a "recession" year; yet more Bonds were bought — and fewer redeemed—than the year before.

Why this confidence in U. S. Savings Bonds?
Read the facts, and you'll know.

1. U. S. Savings Bonds are one of the safest investments you can make. Unlike many other investments, the cash value of U. S. Savings Bonds can not drop; it can only grow. The Government of the United States guarantees it.

2. They pay more interest than ever and E Bonds mature in less time than ever. That means extra money you can depend on when you're planning important long-range purchases, like a new house or a college education for your children.

3. There is no easier way to save. You can put money aside for Bonds automatically through the Payroll Savings Plan; or buy them where you bank; or where you go to school, through the School Savings Plan for U. S. Savings Stamps.

4. U. S. Savings Bonds are indestructible. Every one is recorded. If your Bond is lost, stolen, mutilated or destroyed, the government replaces it free. Can you imagine a safer way to save?

5. Bonds are easy to cash when you really need money. It's as simple as drawing money from the bank—except that you can cash a Bond at any bank. On the other hand—the average saver hangs onto his Bonds. So chances are, you won't find yourself frittering away Bond money. The tendency is to hold them for when you really need the cash.

6. Your Bonds help strengthen America's Peace Power. Peace costs money. Money for military and industrial strength to keep the peace. Money for science and education to help make peace lasting. And money saved by individuals —by you—to help keep our economy strong. Every U. S. Savings Bond you buy helps strengthen America's Peace Power. And that's one of the big reasons over 40 million Americans hold Bonds today. How about you? Are you buying as many as you might?

AUTOMOBILE CLUB LAUNCHES SCHOOL'S OPEN CAMPAIGN

The Automobile Club of Missouri is launching its 33rd annual September School Opening Safety Campaign by reminding motorists that "School's Open—Drive Carefully."

Auto Club Safety Director Stan Keesling pointed out that more children than ever before will be making the trek back to the blackboard and books, and that many of them will be attending school for the first time — unaware of the hazards of crossing congested intersections, streets and highways. "After a summer of fun and play, children sometimes forget to exercise that extra degree of caution when going to and from school," Mr. Keesling said, "it's up to the individual motorist to watch for the school-bound youngsters."

In emphasizing the need for all drivers to be "child alert" this fall, especially in the vicinity of schools and playgrounds, the Auto Club will post 14,000 posters and distribute 25,000 bumper strips throughout its territory.

Mr. Keesling urged all drivers to cooperate with members of the School Safety Patrol in protecting their classmates and pointed out the need for increased safety consciousness on the part of motorists in areas where there are no School Safety Patrols or other means of protection provided to safeguard the school children.

Cooperating with the Auto Club in the fall safety campaign are city and police officials, school authorities and AAA garages and service stations.

Help make this September the safest back-to-school month ever. Remember, "School's Open — Drive Carefully!"

The occasion commemorated a million dollars worth of life insurance sold in one day to pay tribute to Farm Bureau President Olen Monsees. Standing with Mr. and Mrs. Brown are Manager Richard P. Carroll, President Monsees, and Sales Manager Charles Stevenson.

Bloomfield Lions Will Again Have Queen Contest

BLOOMFIELD -- Bloyce Unger, first vice-president, presided in the absence of President Les Brown, for the regular meeting of the Lions club.

It was voted to hold the annual queen contest before the Homecoming at a date to be announced later.

Initiated last year, the Lions' Queen, known as "Miss Kitten" will ride in the homecoming parade and other parades in Southeast Missouri, as well as be an entrant in beauty contests. "Miss Kitten" of 1964 was Miss Bonnie Blue.

Oil Test Nearer At Pinhook

CHARLESTON -- The dream of many Mississippi Countians for a deep well oil test is a step nearer reality.

The test well, which Mammoth Producing Co. of Clare, Mich., proposes to drill, will be located on an 80-acre tract of land owned by Big Oak Farms in the Pinhook community, 18 miles southeast of Charleston. One thousand feet of 8 5/8 inch pipe and a few miscellaneous drilling tools were deposited at the site last Friday. The sludge pit has been dug awaiting the arrival of the cable took rig and Junior Chapman, who will be in charge of this phase of the operation.

Those who wish to visit the drill site can follow Route 77 through Anniston, and then follow Route 80, AA and FF. The site is .6 of a mile east of Route FF in a small clearing east of a patch of scrub timber owned by Mrs. Annie Roberts Finley. Land owned by M. D. Beaton adjoins the property to the south and land owned by Otha Ivie on the east. The test well site is east of the new brick pinhoof school building.

The procedure to be followed calls for use of the cable ring, and setting of approximately 1,000 feet of pipe. After that the company proposes to use a standard rotary rig which would carry the test to a depth of 5,000 feet if necessary.

The originial test well will also provide the "bench work" for extensive seismographic operations in the southern block leased by Mammoth. Incidentally, the first leases acquired in the southern block were obtained about December 15, 1964, and the first leases in the northern block one month later.

The blacktop route (77) east of Anniston is the dividing line between the north and south blocks.

From a member of the Mammoth Producing Co., came a bit of unsolicited advice for those who have not yet signed leases. "The chances are that one or more free lance agents will soon invade the county looking for leases of one kind or another," this spokesman said. "This can serve no earthly purpose except to muddy up the waters."

Actual drilling operations may be started about the first of the week, and there is a possibility that this first test well can be completed in from 20 to 30 days.

Frank Johnson and R. Q. Brown have been instrumental in getting many of the leases for the firm.

Residents of the East Prairie community who wish to visit the test site should go via Anniston because one bridge is out between East Prairie and Sawdust Corner on Route 80. The route is open to the levee on 80, with one-way traffic over one bridge.

The Ten-mile pond bridge is also temporarily out of commission. A road construction sign on Route 80 at the Ten-mile turnoff states "Road Closed." Information reaching this office states a load of corn fell through the bridge.

The United States is a sovereign nation, but the 50 states which compose it do not have full sovereignty.

Drive Carefully, Twitty Urges

This week 4,000 or more public and parochial school children of the community will be starting the 1965-66 school year. Supt. of Schools Lynn Twitty said in the following statement he handed out:

"They will increase both pedestrian and vehicular traffic over the local streets, highways and sidewalks by a very considerable amount. Many of them will be walking to and from school and a fleet of 11 school busses will transport most of those who live more than one mile from the school which they will attend. Many of these youngsters will be going to school for the first time. They will congest streets and crosswalks, especially near the schools. Their judgment as to distance and speed of approaching vehicles is not as good as that of adults. Their safety is the concern of all of us.

"The sight of a school child walking along the streets or highways or the presence of the ubiquitous yellow school bus should alert us to drive with special care.

"The community has been exceptionally safety conscious in the past and thus far we have had no fatalities or serious injuries involving students going to and from school. We think this has been due to a planned safety program involving the schools, the City Government, especially the City Police Force, the State Highway Patrol from the Troopers up to Missouri State Highway Patrol Superintendent, Colonel Hugh Waggoner, the Missouri State Department of Education, the cooperation of local news media and many other individuals and organizations.

"The school safety program includes careful screening and selection of drivers, monthly safety meetings, usually with a representative of the City Police and the Highway Patrol present, careful maintenance of school busses and a school safety patrol of responsible sixth grade students. However, the safety of our school children does not depend upon past record but is a matter of concern every day. We earnestly solicit the continued cooperation of every member of the community, especially drivers of vehicles, in order that our perfect school safety record may continue."

Are U. S. Savings Bonds a good investment? Last year the American people answered:

"You're darn right!"

In 1958, Americans owned over 42½ billion dollars in U. S. Savings Bonds — all-time high. It was a "recession" year; yet more Bonds were bought — and fewer redeemed—than the year before.

Why this confidence in U. S. Savings Bonds? Read the facts, and you'll know.

1. U. S. Savings Bonds are one of the safest investments you can make. Unlike many other investments, the cash value of U. S. Savings Bonds can not drop; it can only grow. The Government of the United States guarantees it.

2. They pay more interest than ever and E Bonds mature in less time than ever. That means extra money you can depend on when you're planning important long-range purchases, like a new house or a college education for your children.

3. There is no easier way to save. You can put money aside for Bonds automatically through the Payroll Savings Plan; or buy them where you bank; or where you go to school, through the School Savings Plan for U. S. Savings Stamps.

4. U. S. Savings Bonds are indestructible. Every one is recorded. If your Bond is lost, stolen, mutilated or destroyed, the government replaces it free. Can you imagine a safer way to save?

5. Bonds are easy to cash when you really need money. It's as simple as drawing money from the bank—except that you can cash a Bond at any bank. On the other hand—the average saver hangs onto his Bonds. So chances are, you won't find yourself frittering away Bond money. The tendency is to hold them for when you really need the cash.

6. Your Bonds help strengthen America's Peace Power. Peace costs money. Money for military and industrial strength to keep the peace. Money for science and education to help make peace lasting. And money saved by individuals —by you—to help keep our economy strong. Every U. S. Savings Bond you buy helps strengthen America's Peace Power. And that's one of the big reasons over 40 million Americans hold Bonds today. How about you? Are you buying as many as you might?

Clarkton Man's Skull Fractured

CLARKTON -- James Holder, 80, is reported in a critical condition with a skull fracture at Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett where he was taken Thursday morning after being found in his home suffering from a beating at the hands of unidentified assailants.

Sheriff Raymond Scott reports that two suspects are being held in the Dunklin County jail for questioning.

Holder, who lives alone, was found by Emery Beck, who came to the house at 10 a.m. Thursday on business. Beck said that Holder came to the door but it was apparent that he was not himself and that he had been beaten.

Marshal Jack McCarley says there has been no evidence uncovered that the victim was robbed and, in his rational moments, Holder has stated that he doesn't know why anyone would want to beat him.

The Highway Patrol and Dunklin County authorities are assisting McCarley in the investigation.

MARKET NEWS

FALL MOVEMENT OF FEEDER CATTLE IS OFF TO GOOD START

National Stock Yards, Ill., Aug. 28 -- Once again the auctioneer's chant is resounding in the big Sales Arena here as the fall sales of feeder cattle and calves start in earnest.

Feeder cattle are thin stock that are purchased by those stockmen who specialize in finishing animals for slaughter. Some farmers produce their own calves and then go on to feed them out, but in most instances the production of calves and the feeding of cattle are two distinct operations.

Cattle are raised in virtually every state of the Union, but the heaviest production is in those areas where there is an abundance of forage and pasture land for grazing. These states include Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas to the west, and such southern states as Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas. Missouri is ideally suited for cattle raising and in recent years Florida has come to the forefront in this enterprise.

Generally speaking, Midwest farm land is too expensive for growing calves in large number. But cattle feeding is a thriving business since only a small space is required and corn, the principal live stock feed, is grown in great abundance.

The importance of the feeder cattle business is best illustrated by the fact that for every load of fat beeves marketed another lot of "replacements" must be purchased if a constant operation is to be maintained.

Cattle feeding is big business. In a recent week at National Stock Yards a total of 7,403 slaughter steer and heifer cattle sold for $1,716,291.

The feeder cattle sales, sponsored by two large farmer-owned cooperative selling agencies at National Stock Yards - Producers Live Stock Marketing Association and Farmers Livestock Marketing Association - are held every Thursday, starting at 12 noon.

Display Rules Outlined

KENNETT -- David Thompson, chairman of industrial education display for the 1965 Delta Fair and Livestock Show Sept. 20-25, has announced the rules and regulations for this section of the fair.

According to the program and premium catalog published by the fair board, this display is entered as department G and contains seven divisions or classes: general shop, woodworking, metalworking, combination materials, drafting, kits, and open classification. This last division includes models, collections, animated displays, mechanical contrivances, or any project that does not come under any of the other groups.

Thompson said a school may enter two projects in a given project area. Students must accompany their project entry and must be present for presentation of an award unless he is graduated and unable to attend. This also applies to any entry made by a graduate; in this case the entry is to be made by the instructor.

Project entry forms will be submitted to: David R. Thompson, instructor, Department of Industrial Education, Kennett High School, Kennett, Mo. on or before Monday, Sept. 13.

Project entries must be submitted in all area's on Monday, Sept. 20, by 10 a.m. at the educational building on the Delta Fairgrounds.

Students will submit entries at their own risk and the fair board cannot be held responsible for any damage to the project during its stay at the fair display.

Project areas will be roped off to prevent handling and damage by spectators and bystanders and will be regularly patroled by authorized persons to prevent any damage or theft.

All projects must be removed from the site by 9 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 25.

One grand champion award will be presented to the project that receives an excellent or outstanding quality rating above all the projects entered. Trophies will be presented in the rating areas: First place entry (superior work) and second place entry (above average).

Display Rules Outlined

KENNETT -- David Thompson, chairman of industrial education display for the 1965 Delta Fair and Livestock Show Sept. 20-25, has announced the rules and regulations for this section of the fair.

According to the program and premium catalog published by the fair board, this display is entered as department G and contains seven divisions or classes: general shop, woodworking, metalworking, combination materials, drafting, kits, and open classification. This last division includes models, collections, animated displays, mechanical contrivances, or any project that does not come under any of the other groups.

Thompson said a school may enter two projects in a given project area. Students must accompany their project entry and must be present for presentation of an award unless he is graduated and unable to attend. This also applies to any entry made by a graduate; in this case the entry is to be made by the instructor.

Project entry forms will be submitted to: David R. Thompson, instructor, Department of Industrial Education, Kennett High School, Kennett, Mo. on or before Monday, Sept. 13.

Project entries must be submitted in all areas on Monday, Sept. 20, by 10 a.m. at the educational building on the Delta Fairgrounds.

Students will submit entries at their own risk and the fair board cannot be held responsible for any damage to the project during its stay at the fair display.

Project areas will be roped off to prevent handling and damage by spectators and bystanders and will be regularly patroled by authorized persons to prevent any damage or theft.

All projects must be removed from the site by 9 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 25.

One grand champion award will be presented to the project that receives an excellent or outstanding quality rating above all the projects entered. Trophies will be presented in the rating areas: First place entry (superior work) and second place entry (above average).

Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. W. Caleb Smith, local real estate dealer, has been selected as the chairman for Scott County's Eighth (Victory) Loan Drive, which will begin on October 14.

Scott County has showed the state that it can grow something besides cotton. Five farmers of the county were induced by A. J. (Pete) Renner of the Scott County Milling Co., to submit samples of their wheat to the contest this week at the Missouri State Fair in Sedalia. The five samples were sent up and they won five of the eight prizes offered at the fair. All eight samples were of Clarkan wheat, the soft variety recommended for this district. First prize in the state, which carries with it a blue ribbon and a cash award of $10, went to Gust Zacher. The other winners were: John A. Hux and Orville Nelson, fourth place; W. S. (Bill) Baker, fifth; Adron Anderson, seventh; and Jake Weaks, eighth place.

Elmer Rabb, farmer living east of Diehlstadt, reports that he has sold eight carloads of watermelons for a total of $4,050, six of the cars going for $525 each and two others for $450. Another Scott county farmer, John Michael of near Vanduser, realized $1,200 from the sale of one car load and two truckloads of melons, he reports.

Dear Sir:

I had a very enjoyable visit with your cities humane officer last week and wanted to personally tell you that you have one of the nicest city animal shelters that I have visited thus far in the state of Missouri.

I believe your humane officer Mr. Haynes is to be commended on the job he is performing, and the interest he takes in his work, and the very neat appearance he presents to all concerned.

If more cities would use your ticket system of controlling the people who have allowed the animals to be in violation we would have far less animal problems and far less health hazards through out the entire state.

Mr. Haynes was interested in our shoulder patch, you could send to Leon Uniform here in St. Louis where we get ours and have him send a sample. You could use Sikeston Humane Society instead of Humane Society of Missouri, and I see no reason why you couldn't use it.

He also wanted information how to catch stray animals that were wild, if you would like I could send you the address of where we get our dog and cat traps and their price, also one of our dog control sticks and dog snares.

I am sending you my card and if at any time you feel we can help you in anyway feel free to call or write me.

Would you, if it is at all possible, send me a copy of your cities animal ordinance.

Sincerely yours,

Dunklin Will Name Legislator In Special Election

KENNETT -- Dunklin County Democratic Chairman Lonnie Kinchen said today the central party committee will not select a nominee for state representative unless Gov. Warren Hearnes calls a special election to fill the post. The vacancy was created when Rep. Charles B. James died.

Kinchen said it is his understanding that if a special election is called, both the Democratic and Republican central committees will have the opportunity to name a nominee to fill James' unexpired term.

Kinchen said, "The Democratic committee has had inquiries from several persons concerning the vacancy created by the recent death of Mr. Charles B. James and how the poistion of Representative from Dunklin County will be filled. It is my understanding that if Gov. Hearnes calls a special session of the legislature, he will call a special election in Dunklin County so that we will be represented in the special session. When the special election is called, the Democratic committee will select a Democratic candidate whose name will appear on the ballot. The Democratic candidate and the Republican candidate will be the only names to appear on the ballot and any other candidates could be elected only by a write-in vote. If the Governor calls a special election, the Democratic committee will meet immediately to select our candidate."

Kinchen said he had conferred with several persons on the proper procedure to fill the vacancy and said he understands the party committees select one candidate each in the event of a special election.

Far Away War Reaches Georgia

MARTINEZ, Ga. (AP) — A plane loaded with Marines on their way back to Viet Nam splashed into a watery grave in Hong Kong Harbor.

The Defense Department said 58 men died, were injured or missing.

Two days later an eight-line telegram was delivered to Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Davis in the little town of Martinez, just outside Augusta.

Without warning, the horrors of war came to a green and white trailer to haunt a family whose only son had been aboard the plane.

The telegram, signed by a general, said Lance Cpl. Ronald L. Davis, 21, was among the missing.

"I regret to inform you that your son—"

Since then the grief-stricken parents and two young sisters have received no encouragement and hope has dimmed.

Ronald wanted to be a commercial artist, his parents said, but first he wanted to get his military obligation behind him. He joined the Marines in January 1964 because it was "the best outfit."

He wrote from Viet Nam that he had a buddy who was the last of a family line. The buddy wanted out, not because he thought he would die, Ronald wrote, but because if he did, would be no one to carry on the family name.

"I couldn't do that," Ronald's letter said. "I couldn't run out on my country when the going got rough."

His letters revealed he was an optimist.

"There are better days ahead," he wrote after a few weeks in Viet Nam. He said he was hot and dirty. Mud and sweat caked the men and their clothes.

"Complaining about our situation is something I try not to do," he wrote. "It doesn't help the morale of other Marines I come in contact with. I try to keep a smile on my face and think of those days ahead when I come home."

Waldman Issues Tax Breakdown

Oran R-3: six cents, 50 cents, 35 cents, $3.75, 10 cents, 10 cents, and two cents; Total $4.78 and $4.88 (outside).

Benton R-4: Six cents, 50 cents, 35 cents, $2.70, 10 cents, 10 cents, and two cents. Total $3.83.

Morley R-5: Six cents, 50 cents, 35 cents, $2.75, 10 cents, 10 cents, and two cents. Total $3.88.

Sikeston R-6: Six cents, 50 cents, 20 cents, $4.00, 10 cents, and two cents. Total $4.88, outside Sikeston $4.98.

ASC Group Holds Election

KENNETT -- The Dunklin County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee were elected at a meeting to be held in the ASCS office at day at 10 a.m.

A staggered term plan has been adopted and, for the first time, the men elected Saturday will be delegated to serve in this manner -- one for a three-year term, one for a two-year term and one for a one-year term.

Community township committeemen, elected at township elections conducted on Tuesday, Aug. 24, will make up the county convention for the election of the county committee.

Community committeemen who participated in the election Saturday morning were, by townships:

Buffalo--Cardwell: Leo Hooker, Armon Harrison and Wayne Montgomery.

And then there was the newly rich man who walked into a Cadillac showroom one morning and said, "My wife has come down with a touch of the flu. Have you anything nice in a get-well car?" Dr. L. Binder.

KENNETT -- Dunklin County Democratic Chairman Lonnie Kinchen said today the central party committee will not select a nominee for state representative unless Gov. Warren Hearnes calls a special election to fill the post. The vacancy was created when Rep. Charles B. James died.

Kinchen said it is his understanding that if a special election is called, both the Democratic and Republican central committees will have the opportunity to name a nominee to fill James' unexpired term.

Kinchen said, "The Democratic committee has had inquiries from several persons concerning the vacancy created by the recent death of Mr. Charles B. James and how the poistion of Representative from Dunklin County will be filled. It is my understanding that if Gov. Hearnes calls a special session of the legislature, he will call a special election in Dunklin County so that we will be represented in the special session. When the special election is called, the Democratic committee will select a Democratic candidate whose name will appear on the ballot. The Democratic candidate and the Republican candidate will be the only names to appear on the ballot and any other candidates could be elected only by a write-in vote. If the Governor calls a special election, the Democratic committee will meet immediately to select our candidate."

Kinchen said he had conferred with several persons on the proper procedure to fill the vacancy and said he understands the party committees select one candidate each in the event of a special election.

Far Away War Reaches Georgia

MARTINEZ, Ga. (AP) — A plane loaded with Marines on their way back to Viet Nam splashed into a watery grave in Hong Kong Harbor.

The Defense Department said 58 men died, were injured or missing.

Two days later an eight-line telegram was delivered to Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Davis in the little town of Martinez, just outside Augusta.

Without warning, the horrors of war came to a green and white trailer to haunt a family whose only son had been aboard the plane.

The telegram, signed by a general, said Lance Cpl. Ronald L. Davis, 21, was among the missing.

"I regret to inform you that your son—"

Since then the grief-stricken parents and two young sisters have received no encouragement and hope has dimmed.

Ronald wanted to be a commercial artist, his parents said, but first he wanted to get his military obligation behind him. He joined the Marines in January 1964 because it was "the best outfit."

He wrote from Viet Nam that he had a buddy who was the last of a family line. The buddy wanted out, not because he thought he would die, Ronald wrote, but because if he did, would be no one to carry on the family name.

"I couldn't do that," Ronald's letter said. "I couldn't run out on my country when the going got rough."

His letters revealed he was an optimist.

"There are better days ahead," he wrote after a few weeks in Viet Nam. He said he was hot and dirty. Mud and sweat caked the men and their clothes.

"Complaining about our situation is something I try not to do," he wrote. "It doesn't help the morale of other Marines I come in contact with. I try to keep a smile on my face and think of those days ahead when I come home."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. AP -- Elwood J. Crispin, 52, donated more than five gallons of blood in almost 23 years to the regional blood bank.

He received nearly two gallons of blood in transfusions in the form of serum-albumin from the center after he suffered burns in last week's explosions at the DuPont synthetic rubber plant here.

Crispin, a DuPont employe 29 years, died Friday. At least 10 others were killed in the blasts. A search continues for a 12th body.

The two-hour flight will be a snail's pace compared to the 17,500-mile-per-hour speed of the space chariot that carried Cooper, an Air Force lieutenant colonnel, and Conrad, a Navy lieutenant commander, for almost eight days of weightless flying.

First examinations Sunday aboard the Champlain indicated the men were in remarkable physical condition.

President Johnson phoned his congratulations to the space twins almost by the time they had removed their silver space suits.

Cooper, 38, veteran of two space trips, and the tattooed, Ivy Leaguer Conrad, 35, ended their record-shattering space voyage at 7:55 a.m. Sunday after circling the globe 120 times in 7 days, 22 hours and 55 minutes.

Immediately the world began to react.

Pope Paul, speaking to several thousand tourists at his summer palace, Castel Gandolfo, in Italy, said:

"We express the wish that all this great work will result not as a damage but as an added perfection for mankind."

The Soviet people heard praise of the astronauts as Soviet television and Tass made the Gemini 5 space mission the lead item on the evening news.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Great Britain called the flight "a quite remarkable feat which is a triumph of technology and humane courage."

As far the astronauts, they couldn't wait to eat after being plucked from the Atlantic Ocean.

Of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson later became president.

Legal Aid Plans Made In Bootheel

KENNETT -- A committee was appointed to formulate plans for a legal aid and public defender system for the five counties in the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corp. at a meeting held in the Circuit Court room of the Courthouse.

The committee appointed for this work included Judge Arthur U. Goodman, Jr., Blake L. McHaney, Charles M. Cable and Franklin D. Holder of Kennett and Sidney Chaffin of Caruthersville.

Holder, president of the Dunklin County Bar Assn., presided over the meeting and introduced guests: Lloyd Roberts of Joplin, president of the Missouri Bar Assn.; Jack Oliver of Cape Girardeau, chairman of a committee of the Missouri Bar Assn. to study the legal aid system for the poverty program; Wade Baker of Jefferson City, executive director of the Missouri Bar Assn.; Mrs. Margaret Bush Wilson of Jefferson City, representative of the governor's office; Ted McQuary of Kansas City, area coordinator for all states, including Missouri, for the Federal OEO office; and J. M. Rowley of Jefferson City, deputy administrator for urban affairs.

A group of 31 leaders in the Delta Corp. and lawyers from the area were present to discuss and consider the establishment of a legal component to render services to the indigent in this area who need legal help and who are not able to afford it.

James Dement of Holcomb, chairman of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corp., reported that the five counties (Dunklin, Pemiscot, Scott, New Madrid and Mississippi) which make up the Delta Corp. have a population in excess of 160,000 and 54 per cent of these families have an income of under $3,000 a year.

McQuary advised the group that in order to get the program under way, an application has to be filed through the community action program and guidelines for this procedure are set out in a publication titled, "Law and Poverty."

McQuary also recommended that "it would be well to use the five-county area" rather than to set up separate legal aid systems in each county. He indicated that professional help would be brought into the area to help with the planning of the public defender system, if the application is filed.

The concensus of the group was that there is an urgent need for the legal aid system and a motion was entertained that a committee be formed to discuss this matter further and to decide whether the program should be on a local county basis or for the five-county area, to get the components, to undertake to start the program after deciding the type of program best for this area and how the program should be set up, make reports and recommendations and make application for approval and funding of the legal aid system.

"Hecho en Mexico" means more than just a straw handbag.

You've seen the imprint "Hecho en Mexico"—"Made in Mexico"—on all sorts of artistic things. Light straw huaraches and handbags, bright fabrics, gaily-painted pottery, elegant furniture—all "Hecho en Mexico" and known for their style.

But that's not all.

Today, cotton, coffee, lead, zinc, cattle, petroleum, seafood and sulphur—they, too, come from south of the border. Mexico is our leading trade partner in Latin America, the fifth-largest in all the world. 60% of all Mexican exports come to the U.S.A. And there'll be more goods—and more types of goods—"Hecho en Mexico" in the future. Every year, they register a 7% increase in their gross national product, and this rapid, steady increase is reflected in our trade with them.

Search For 12th Body In Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. AP -- Elwood J. Crispin, 52, donated more than five gallons of blood in almost 23 years to the regional blood bank.

He received nearly two gallons of blood in transfusions in the form of serum-albumin from the center after he suffered burns in last week's explosions at the DuPont synthetic rubber plant here.

Crispin, a DuPont employe 29 years, died Friday. At least 10 others were killed in the blasts. A search continues for a 12th body.

The rattlesnake flag carried by the Minute Men bore the motto "Don't Tread on Me."

Travelers Win First In Contest

The two-hour flight will be a snail's pace compared to the 17,500-mile-per-hour speed of the space chariot that carried Cooper, an Air Force lieutenant colonnel, and Conrad, a Navy lieutenant commander, for almost eight days of weightless flying.

First examinations Sunday aboard the Champlain indicated the men were in remarkable physical condition.

President Johnson phoned his congratulations to the space twins almost by the time they had removed their silver space suits.

Cooper, 38, veteran of two space trips, and the tattooed, Ivy Leaguer Conrad, 35, ended their record-shattering space voyage at 7:55 a.m. Sunday after circling the globe 120 times in 7 days, 22 hours and 55 minutes.

Immediately the world began to react.

Pope Paul, speaking to several thousand tourists at his summer palace, Castel Gandolfo, in Italy, said:

"We express the wish that all this great work will result not as a damage but as an added perfection for mankind."

The Soviet people heard praise of the astronauts as Soviet television and Tass made the Gemini 5 space mission the lead item on the evening news.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Great Britain called the flight "a quite remarkable feat which is a triumph of technology and humane courage."

As far the astronauts, they couldn't wait to eat after being plucked from the Atlantic Ocean.

Of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson later became president.

Legal Aid Plans Made In Bootheel

KENNETT -- A committee was appointed to formulate plans for a legal aid and public defender system for the five counties in the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corp. at a meeting held in the Circuit Court room of the Courthouse.

The committee appointed for this work included Judge Arthur U. Goodman, Jr., Flake L. McHaney, Charles M. Cable and Franklin D. Holder of Kennett and Sidney Chaffin of Caruthersville.

Holder, president of the Dunklin County Bar Assn., presided over the meeting and introduced guests: Lloyd Roberts of Joplin, president of the Missouri Bar Assn.; Jack Oliver of Cape Girardeau, chairman of a committee of the Missouri Bar Assn. to study the legal aid system for the poverty program; Wade Baker of Jefferson City, executive director of the Missouri Bar Assn.; Mrs. Margaret Bush Wilson of Jefferson City, representative of the governor's office; Ted McQuary of Kansas City, area coordinator for all states, including Missouri, for the Federal OEO office; and J. M. Rowley of Jefferson City, deputy administrator for urban affairs.

A group of 31 leaders in the Delta Corp. and lawyers from the area were present to discuss and consider the establishment of a legal component to render services to the indigent in this area who need legal help and who are not able to afford it.

James Dement of Holcomb, chairman of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corp., reported that the five counties (Dunklin, Pemiscot, Scott, New Madrid and Mississippi) which make up the Delta Corp. have a population in excess of 160,000 and 54 per cent of these families have an income of under $3,000 a year.
